Schools Fully Staffed; Edson by Mid-December

While officials in many districts are facing a problem of staffing their schools for the 1966-67 term, schools in the Kingston Consolidated School District were officially fully staffed as of Thursday night.

That was a report made to the Board of Education at the monthly meeting of W. Wendell Hoover, superintendent of schools, who also informed board members that on the opening day of school on Wednesday, the registration was reported by James E. Tobin, assistant superintendent in charge of pupil personnel services, at 10,143, an increase of some 300 above the figure for the first day of school last year.

More Facilities Needed
Dr. Hoover noted that registration for kindergarten classes had increased considerably, and said that at least two additional teachers will be needed. The superintendent also contended that even after the opening of the new Edson and Miller Schools additional facilities will be needed to provide for the increasing enrollment of the Kingston schools.

In a progress report, Hubert Hoderath, chairman of the building committee, said that the new Harry Edson School is expected to be ready for occupancy about mid-December. The trustee reported that two relocatable buildings, which were put up during the summer months, are now in use, one at Port Ewen and the other at Lake Katrine.

Lauds Markes, Salzmans
Commenting on the staffing of the schools in the Kingston Consolidated District, Dr. Hoover said that the fact that the schools in the district were officially fully staffed as of last night, was due to the efforts of Robert J. Markes and Louis A. Salzmans, associate superintendents of school.

On recommendation of Dr. Hoover, the board voted unanimously a temporary appointment as principal of School 7 to Donald E. Sweeney beginning Sept. 1 and continuing until the opening of the Edson School. Dr. Hoover's recommendation that Raymond Monfett be appointed as coordinator of Project Able for the school year 1966-67 at an annual differential above his teacher's salary of $500, was unanimously approved.

The board directed Edna S. Morgan, collector-treasurer of the City School District to collect the 1966-67 taxes in two installments on all taxable property in the district for a total of $4,398,353.84. A tax warrant was signed by each board member. The first installment is due on or before Oct. 15, and the second on or before Dec. 15. Tax bills will be mailed on Wednesday, Sept. 14.

The 1966-67 tax rate based on special equalization rates furnished by the State of New York is listed for the communities within the Consolidated School District as follows:

Tax Rates Listed
Kingston (city) $45.887;

Board Lists City School Appointees

Appointment of 32 professional employees on probationary basis were approved Thursday night at the September meeting of the Kingston Board of Education presided over by Arthur H. Witthall, president.

The board accepted with regret 14 resignations and approved salary increases for 13 teachers who have submitted evidence of having satisfactorily completed graduate work. In other action by the board last night, 10 days in the school year 1966-67 were approved as days for religious observance.

List Appointments

Probationary appointments of elementary teachers approved at Thursday night's board meeting included: Nina Balotti, Miss Carolyn M. Brown, Miss Carol M. Cordts, Miss Rosemary Dwyer, A. William Esser, Mrs. Georgia Davis Jones, Miss Nancy Lynne Laiken, Miss Mary Melville, Mrs. Mildred Mertine, Miss Linda Pope, Mrs. Nancy Walborn, Mrs. Eileen Wasserman.

Miss Susan Bott was appointed as a permanent substitute in elementary schools. William Donovan and Charles W. Flagger were appointed to temporary positions as mathematic teachers.

Term 892 Houses In Good Condition

Inspection of 957 houses in the city recently completed revealed that 892 in good condition, Building Inspector George E. Radcliffe reported today.

Inspections, which are due to continue for at least another two years, are done in support of local urban renewal as a safeguard against deterioration while rehabilitation is in progress.

Hold 'Black Power' Advocate for Riot

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Police have arrested "black power" advocate Stokely Carmichael and charged him under two counts in connection with Tuesday night's riot in a predominantly Negro section of southeast Atlanta.

A hearing was scheduled today in Recorder's Court for Carmichael, national chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee. Detective Supt. Clinton Chafin said Carmichael was charged with disorderly conduct — inciting to riot, a state charge carrying a bond of $10,000, and disorderly conduct — creating a disturbance, a city charge carrying a bond of $1,000. Carmichael spent the night in the Atlanta jail. Carmichael was to be tried on the city charge today. If there is sufficient evidence on the state charge he would be bound over to the Fulton County grand jury. The city charge carries a maximum penalty of 60 days in jail or $500 fine.

Chafin said Carmichael was arrested at SNCC headquarters late Thursday night. Carmichael's arrest came after Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. ordered city officials to initiate immediate action against any and all persons responsible for the riot. Two SNCC members had been arrested earlier.

The mayor made the statement after Police Chief Herbert Jenkins and City Attorney Henry Bowden met with Lewis Slattery, Fulton County prosecutor, to determine the course to be (Continued on Page 12, Col. 1)

Tax Incentives May Go Solons React Fast To LBJ Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid talk of new taxes and some sharp complaints, Congress moved today to speed consideration of President Johnson's new proposal for fighting inflation by suspending some business tax incentives.

The House Ways and Means Committee announced hearings next Monday on the presidential plan — outlined in a special message Thursday — to suspend for 16 months the 7-per cent tax credit for business spending on equipment and the tax-advantageous fast depreciation rules on business real estate.

The legislation was quickly introduced Thursday by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., committee chairman, who said the first witnesses will include Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor and Budget Director Charles L. Schultz.

In the Senate, Majority Leader Mike Mansfield announced that Democratic leaders in Congress had been consulted in advance of the message and had assured the President of their cooperation.

House Must Act First
And Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., head of the Finance Committee, said that group will consider Johnson's proposals at an early date. The House must act first on the legislation.

In his surprise message, Johnson said the stimulus to the equipment improvement needed a few years ago now is overstraining supplying factors and crowding capital markets with excessive demands for credit.

The business tax credit applies not only to equipment and machinery purchased by industry but to such farm production equipment as tractors. It does not, however, apply to livestock investments.

Johnson announced his new anti-inflation proposals at a news conference staged Thursday just as the special message arrived on Capitol Hill.

The conference dealt mainly with economics, but the President made these other points: The question of troop withdrawal from Europe and other North Atlantic Treaty Organization problems are matters "more wisely handled" in NATO discussions first.

Reaction Varies To White House Inflation Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Business leaders have expressed varying degrees of dissatisfaction with President Johnson's proposal to dampen the fired-up economy by removing tax incentives for new plants and equipment.

Some executives criticized its timing and completeness, and questioned whether it would have an immediate effect on inflation and high interest costs, a survey showed today.

Labor Gives Pledge
Two financial experts, however, applauded the psychological effect of the move.

The plan received a pledge of support from organized labor. Heading the list of the proposals' critics were Roger Blough, chairman of the U.S. Steel Corp. and William F. Butler, senior vice president of the Chase Manhattan Bank and director of its economic research division.

Both called it "a mistake." "It's not the best program he could have proposed," Butler said, "because orders already placed will allow capital expansion to go on rising, possibly for another six months. The impact may come at the worst time, just as the overheating is ending."

Sees Additional Pressures
Blough said the plan would not bring immediate relief and could have "just the opposite result of what it intended" by placing additional pressure on corporate borrowing or prices.

The President proposed that Congress suspend the 7 per cent investment tax credit for 16 months. Johnson promised on (Continued on Page 26, Col. 2)

Rocky Flays Boss Rule Despite Apparent Revolt

Delay Shot Because of Fuel Leak Only First Tank Emptied by Staff

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The space agency today re-scheduled the launch of Gemini 11 for Saturday.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A pinhole leak in the fuel system of the Titan 2 booster rocket today forced a postponement of the flight of Gemini 11.

The leak was discovered just three hours before astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Richard F. Gordon Jr. were to wake up to start preparations for their three-day mission. They were allowed to continue sleeping.

Technicians tried to repair the leak in time to launch Gemini 11 Saturday, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said.

Aliming to minimize the delay to 24 hours, technicians unloaded only the leaking tank, the spokesman said, keeping fuel inside other tanks aboard the Titan 2 rocket.

Leak in First Stage
The leak, in the first stage, was first detected by a technician checking ordnance devices on the rocket after its tanks had been loaded with 13,700 gallons of fuel and 15,900 gallons of oxidizer.

He noted a tell-tale reddish-brown wisps of vapor that indicated a leak and reported it to the blockhouse. About the same time, it was noted by instruments in the blockhouse.

"It was only a pinhole in a welded area," an official said. "But you can't fly with that type of situation."

The hole was so tiny that more vapor than liquid was escaping.

If the leak can be repaired by a simple "tire patch" operation from the outside, the rocket could be ready to go in a day or so, officials said. But if the top (Continued on Page 8, Col. 5)

Johnson to Sign Auto and Road Safety Measures

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signs into law the auto and highway safety bills today before an audience of congressmen, auto company officials, safety experts and auto industry critic Ralph Nader.

One bill gives the secretary of commerce authority to set safety standards for 1968 model cars, buses and trucks and to set standards within two years on tires and used cars.

The other provides funds for comprehensive state safety programs including driver education, vehicle inspection, highway lighting and traffic control. Nader, 32, the attorney whose book "Unsafe at Any Speed" (Continued on Page 8, Col. 6)

ACCEPT POSTHUMOUS AWARD — Mr. and Mrs. David E. Reilly, of Esopus, accept the Purple Heart from Marine Major Bruce Shore for their son, Pfc. James R. Reilly, 19-year-old Marine, who died March 17 smothering an enemy hand grenade with his body. The act saved the life of a foxhole mate southwest of Da Nang, Viet Nam. The presentation was made Thursday at brief ceremonies in Esopus Post Office. On June 1, Pfc. Reilly posthumously received one of the highest decorations of New York State, The Conspicuous Service Cross. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Upset for Second Spot Democrats Line Up Balance on Ticket

BUFFALO N.Y. (AP) — The Democratic party presented a nearly balanced ticket to New York State voters today in the wake of a turbulent convention that saw Howard J. Samuels rescue himself from political oblivion.

The party slate for major offices struck a tidy geographic, religious and racial balance that many professional politicians deem necessary for success at the polls in November.

Roosevelt Calls For 'New Day' as Liberals' Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., accepting the Liberal party's nomination for governor, has proposed a $5 billion human resources state bond issue to help fight poverty.

Going behind the slogan of his late father, he told the Liberal state convention Thursday night: "We need more than a new deal — we need a new day."

The "great overriding challenge of the coming decade," he said, is "the deepening gap between the affluent Park Avenue and the impoverished, devastated Harlem."

Roosevelt, who is conceded no chance of election, was given these running mates: — For lieutenant governor — the Rev. Donald S. Harrington, state chairman of the Liberal party and minister of the Community Church in Manhattan.

— For comptroller — Arthur Levitt of Brooklyn, the Democratic nominee for re-election.

— For attorney general — Simeon Golar, a lawyer, a Liberal party leader in Brooklyn. New York City's deputy commissioner of relocation and the only Negro nominated for statewide office this year by any of the political parties.

Roosevelt drew 209 delegate votes at the Liberal party convention. There were 33 votes for James Farmer, a Negro and former national director of the Congress of Racial Equality. He was not an active candidate for the nomination.

Key Issue Still Alive: Governor

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Republican Gov. Rockefeller, campaigning for a third term, clung today to the issue of Democratic "bossism," despite an evident revolt by Democratic delegates at that party's convention in Buffalo.

Rockefeller, renominated here Thursday night by acclamation, told a news conference as he set out on the re-election trail that the apparent rebellion over the choice of a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor had not deprived the Republicans of the "bossism" issue.

Refers to Hassle
The delegates selected Howard J. Samuels, Canandaigua businessman, but Rockefeller said he believed the choice actually had been made by a "small group behind closed doors."

"The delegates for 24 hours were wandering the halls," Rockefeller said in a reference to the Democratic hassle over the selection of the lieutenant governor candidate.

Rockefeller, beaming broadly, was joined at the news conference this morning by the other members of the GOP state ticket.

Debate Will Wait
Asked whether he would meet Frank D. O'Connor, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, face-to-face, the governor said that he would wait until O'Connor had had a chance to "familiarize himself with state activities," and that a debate "would be useful when he catches up."

"He is facile," Rockefeller said of O'Connor, "and should be able to do so in a reasonably short time if they give him the facts."

The governor when asked how much he expected the Republican campaign to cost, indicated it was too early to say but said the Democrats were "distorting the facts" about Republican campaign spending.

Rules Out Viet Issue
Rockefeller said Viet Nam should not be a state issue because state officials "do not have all the facts about such an important issue."

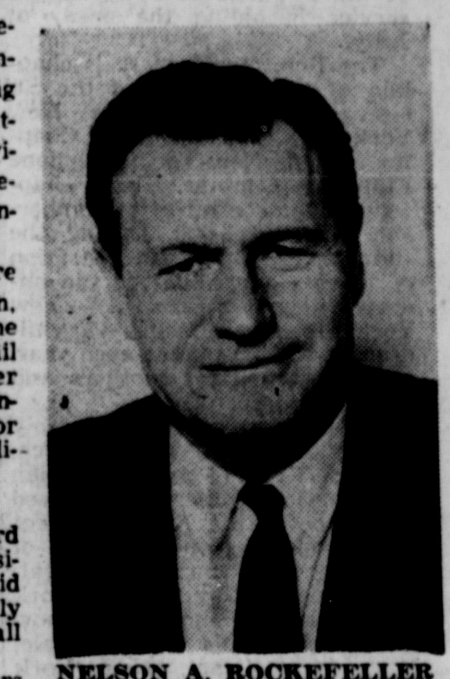

As for his third-term bid, Rockefeller told a cheering GOP convention Thursday night in War Memorial Auditorium. "With God's help, we go forth from this hall, to victory."

New Innovations In Water System

Improvements to the city's water system now in progress near completion and others to be made were discussed at a Thursday night meeting of the water board which received fuel oil and radio equipment bids later referred to the purchasing committee.

Weigh New Saugerties Zoning Bid

Saugerties Village Zoning Board of Appeals Thursday night reserved decision on a petition of a local ambulance service for a zoning variance to permit operation and garaging of two vehicles on Robinson Street.

Saugerties Ambulance Service petitioned the board for a variance of the zoning law to permit continued operation of its business and housing of two ambulances at 14 Robinson Street, the property of Elton L. Johnson.

Filed Petitions
Kingston Attorney Abraham Streifer acting for the ambulance service filed three petitions at the hearing before the board in Donlon Auditorium. Nearly 70 persons attended.

One petition submitted was signed by all doctors in the village supporting the ambulance service request.

Another petition supporting the service had the signatures of 14 of the 19 residents on Robinson Street.

The third petition contained 1,066 signatures in the village expressing support of the application of variance.

Reversed Ruling

Last week it had been reported that a group of Robinson Street residents asked for and received a reversal of a ruling by the Zoning Board of Appeals not in violation of the zoning ordinance.

Supreme Court Justice Isador Bookstein had issued the order directing the Board of Appeals to "eliminate the operation of the ambulance business on the street."

John Rivenberg, village zoning enforcement officer had originally found the ambulance service not in violation of the zoning ordinance. Later a small group of Robinson Street citizens filed an application with the Board of Appeals, but the board decided to support the Rivenberg decision. The group retained Attorney Michael E. Catalinotto, who pressed the case in Supreme Court. The court however granted a temporary stay to Clifton Jones of the ambulance service. As a result the new hearing last night was scheduled. ### Breakfast Will Launch Leaders Section for Chest

The Leadership Section of the Advanced Groups Division of the Ulster County Community Chest 1967 campaign will begin Monday, Sept. 12 under the direction of George Herbert DeKay and William Merrill. A breakfast meeting of 25 volunteers will take place at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 8 a. m. for instruction and orientation for this most important task.

Saigon Troops Kill 150; Fierce Battle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — South Vietnamese infantrymen reported today they killed 150 main-force Viet Cong troops in a fierce battle in the central lowlands near the coast. U.S. Air Force planes accounted for up to 50 more communist dead, a spokesman said.

Speaker Named For Lodge 343 Event on Sept. 19

Principal speaker for the annual Old Timer's Night of Roundout Lodge, 343, F & AM, will be the Rev. P. J. Zaccara, past grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York.

The event is scheduled for Monday night, Sept. 19, at Masonic Temple, Albany Avenue, and will honor all members of the Masonic fraternity with membership of 25 years or more.

Dr. Zaccara is popular in Masonic circles and is considered an eloquent speaker. He is expected to have a message suitable to the occasion.

Born on the lower East side, a product of the New York City schools and later Bloomfield College and Seminary, class of 1930, he was awarded an honorary Doctor of Divinity by the school.

Decorated by Italy

During World War II he was chairman of the National Committee for Relief to Italy, and largely through his efforts more than six million pounds of clothing, food and medicines were sent to the destitute of that country. Two thousand head of cattle also were sent to the farmers and well over $150,000 in funds. In 1945 he was one of three ministers chosen to represent the Protestant Church of America and Canada on a relief mission to Italy. He was later decorated by the Italian government with the Order of Cavalier of the Republic of Italy for his service in aiding the needy of Italy.

The Rev. Mr. Zaccara is chaplain of two chapters of the St. George Association, the New York City Transit System Chapter and the New York Telephone Employees Chapter. These chapters have a combined membership of over 3,000. During the summer he supervises operation of three camps, one for the underprivileged children of New York City where nearly 750 children of all races come each year, and the other for mothers and young children.

He has been pastor of Holy Trinity Presbyterian Church, Bronx; Trinity Presbyterian Church, Somerville, Mass., served as pastor of the Broome Street Tabernacle, a pioneer church of evangelical work among the Italians, supported by the New York City Mission Society. It is now located in the Old Labor Temple, East 14th Street, New York City.

In 1951 Dr. Zaccara came into the New York City Mission Society office as field representative. In 1957 he became assistant executive director, New York City Mission Society. He is a member of Garibaldi Lodge 542 and also a member of the Scottish Rite Bodies of New York,

City Issues 26 Permits to Build Totalling $172,090

Building Inspector George E. Radcliffe today reported issuing 26 building and renovation permits in August, at a total estimated construction cost of $172,090.

Three permits were issued for private dwellings at an estimated cost of $40,950, and two for alterations at an estimate of $12,300.

Two permits for commercial structures were issued at a total estimated construction cost of $98,700. One was for the Telephone Company building now under construction on a site near Kingston Plaza and the other was issued to AAA Auto Glass for a shop to be located at 336 Broadway.

Four permits were issued for swimming pools at an estimate of $8,975, seven for additions at $8,060, two for garages at $2,500, two for oil tanks at $205, and one for a storage shed at $400. Three demolition permits were issued. The total in permit fees was $470.50.

Utility Man Killed

FEURA BUSH, N. Y. (AP)—Austin McCarroll, 28, a lineman for the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., was killed by electric shock Thursday while working on a power line near this community southwest of Albany.

McCarroll lived in Castleton, and Mecca Shrine. He served as Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of New York State for 12 years.

Roundout Lodge extends an invitation to all Master Masons to attend and refreshments will be served in the dining room following the meeting and a social hour will be enjoyed.

New Negotiation In GE-IUE Pact Still Uncertain

NEW YORK (AP)—The immediate future course of negotiations between the General Electric Co. and the largest union of GE employees appeared uncertain today following a ruling by the U.S. Court of Appeals.

The court Thursday vacated a recent order by U.S. District Court Judge Marvin E. Frankel that GE must bargain with a committee headed by the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) and including representatives of several other unions of GE employees.

Pending the Court of Appeals decision on the company's appeal, GE had been bargaining with a multination committee "under protest" since Aug. 23.

The court criticized the National Labor Relations Board for getting the order from Frankel instead of handling the case itself. The court called the order "an extraordinary remedy indeed," and it handed the case back to the NLRB.

Following the Court of Appeals ruling, John Callahan, chairman of the IUE's GE Locals Conference Board, said the IUE will continue to meet with a bargaining committee of its own choosing.

Callahan, who made the comment at Miami Beach where the union's convention was being held, also said:

"We feel now, as we did in the past that any refusal of GE to meet with a committee of our own choosing will be a violation of the law."

After Thursday's court decision, a GE spokesman said here, "We're glad to see the air cleared." He declined further comment.

The spokesman was asked whether GE would continue contract talks with the IUE committee if representatives of the other unions remained in the negotiating room.

"That's a question which might better be directed to the unions," he replied.

The inference from this remark was that the company feels it incumbent on the labor team to act to eliminate representatives of other unions from the IUE talks.

Officials of the IUE, continuing to bargain with GE here, declined comment in the absence of IUE President Paul Jennings and other top officers of the union attending the convention.

A three-man panel of the Court of Appeals, which issued its decision one day after hearing oral arguments said that in setting aside Frankel's order it was not ruling on the merits of the case.

Kingston Trust Auditor Speaks In Richmond, Va.

George D. Reisenauer, Auditor of the Kingston Trust Company, was a speaker at the Short Course in Bank Auditing held at the University of Richmond, Va. Aug. 28-Sept. 3.

The Short Course, sponsored by the Association for Bank Audit, Control and Operations, is one of three regional seminars held annually for a selected group of bankers, not exceeding fifty in number. Students from 21 states attended this year's session.

Reisenauer spoke on Loan and Collateral Auditing. During the six classroom hours allotted to this subject theoretical principals of auditing were related to their practical application in the banking organization.

Evenings were devoted to organized sessions during which the instructors and school staff discussed and analyzed with the students many of the real auditing problems facing the banker.

The major purpose of the seminars is to create a cross current of ideas, problems and solutions in order to create better bankers and better banks.

Mishap Also Claims Life of Daughter

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A 25-year-old woman died Thursday night in Kenmore Mercy Hospital of injuries suffered in a traffic accident that killed her father.

She was Mrs. Baretta Stanton of Buffalo.

Her father, Earl Hamilton, 61, of Cleveland, Ohio, lost his life Sunday when an automobile in which he was riding struck a utility pole on a Buffalo street.

Mrs. Stanton lived at 145 Potomac Ave. Hamilton's home was at 3305 Clinton Ave.

ARC to Operate Refugee Camp in South Viet Nam

The American Red Cross will operate a refugee camp in South Viet Nam at the request of the Commissioner of Refugees of the South Viet Nam government and in cooperation with the U.S. Agency for International Development. The American Red Cross staff will be assisted by members of the South Vietnamese Red Cross in operating the camp.

The seven-man American Red Cross team, which includes a nurse, a sanitarian, and welfare and craft-recreation specialists, and counter-parts from the South Vietnamese Red Cross will provide health, educational and social services for up to 10,000 civilians displaced by the conflict.

Among its projects to help meet immediate needs, the Red Cross will establish a special child feeding center and provide health services. The Red Cross workers also will help to prepare the refugees resettlement and normal living by teaching crafts and organizing training activities in a variety of work projects. As an aid to this vocational program, the Red Cross will establish sewing rooms.

The American Red Cross will provide large quantities of supplies, such as educational materials, sewing machines and other sewing materials, carpentry and agricultural tools kits, vegetable seeds, and recreational items. Chapters are participating in this relief activity either through furnishing supplies or financing their purchase.

William S. Gaud, deputy administrator of the Agency for International Development, testifying before the Senate Subcommittee on Refugees, termed the project "a significant new contribution to refugee relief in Viet Nam."

Red Cross activities in Ulster County are financed by contributions to the Ulster County Community Chest and the March fund drive.

Mt. Ararat, Biblical resting place of Noah's Ark, is a volcano on the boundary of Iran and Turkey in southwestern Asia.

Jurors to Meet Monday Night

The regular meeting of the Ulster County Grand Juror's Association will be held Monday, Sept. 12, in the Court House, Wall Street, at 8 o'clock.

Chester Elliott, president, said he expects a large turnout and said plans will be made for the October card party.

Harry Thayer will be guest speaker.

Olive Board Sets Public Hearing; Budget Meeting

A number of town matters were discussed at the Sept. 6 meeting of the Olive Town Board.

Bills from the general funds in the amount of $1381.18, and the highway funds in the amount of $4887.32 were read and approved.

A letter was received from the Ontario Central School in reference to tax relief for persons 65 years or over on limited income of $3000 or less. A public meeting will be held by the board of education in the fall.

The Ulster County Republican Committee was informed that there are two new inspectors of election, for District 2, Patricia Molloy and Ann Rose. All other districts remain the same. Two new voting districts were presented for discussion. They are in Ashokan and Olivebridge.

A large delegation of townspeople was present at the meeting and commended Town Board Superintendent Marcel Maier on the excellent work he has been doing on town roads.

The town swimming pool will be open on weekends only, from 1-6 p. m.

The town board agreed to furnish a constable for school service at the Ontario Central School in the afternoon until the present road situation clears.

There will be public hearing on a pool for Shokan on Sept. 20 at 8 p. m. at the Olivebridge firehouse.

There will be a special meeting Sept. 27 for the purpose of formulating the budget for the coming year.

Gen. Ulysses S. Grant acquired the nickname of "Unconditional Surrender" after the Battle of Fort Donelson.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Tell me, just as a matter of personal interest, to what school do you plan to go back?"

Today's Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF, AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) —Faced with some of the highest interest rates in decades, more and more Americans are finding a lifesaver in their life insurance policies.

Up 6.3 Per Cent

Loans granted on policies in the first half of this year jumped 6.3 per cent to $8,163,000, from $7,420,000, in the same period of 1965.

At a time when banks are charging more, asking more questions, beginning to turn down more requests, conducting stiffer investigations, and making repayment terms a bit more difficult, the insurance companies:

—Charge only 5 per cent generally, although the rate may be higher in some states;

—Ask no questions, conduct no investigation, turn down no legitimate request; —Permit irregular repayments over a period of time that you, yourself, set.

Despite the ease of a policy loan, insurance companies caution that such money shouldn't be borrowed frivolously. Your protection is automatically reduced by the amount of the loan.

Contractual Right

Borrowing the cash value of a life insurance policy is a contractual right written into most policies other than "term" policies. It gives you first claim on the money at the low rate even if the insurer could get a higher rate elsewhere—as he can today. Term insurance has protection value but no cash or loan value.

The nation's three largest life insurers — Metropolitan, Prudential and Equitable—are among those which report recent increases in the number of policy loans.

Prudential, for example, loaned $42 million more through July of this year than in the same seven months a year ago. Equitable's loans through June totaled 3.75 per cent of its assets, a figure that appears small until you find it totals about $450 million.

Information regarding the loan provisions is included in your policy, along with a chart showing the cash surrender value and the loan value of the policy for each year of its life.

Democrats Name Wagner to Head Delegates Slate

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — New York's former Mayor, Robert F. Wagner, whose last-minute thrust for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination failed, found a spot on the state ticket—as a candidate for delegate-at-large to the 1967 Constitutional Convention.

Wagner's name was at the top of the slate of 15 such delegates nominated by the party's state convention as its last act of business Thursday night.

State Chairman John Burns said, however, that at least three of the nominees would be replaced if an agreement could be worked out with the Liberal party to merge their delegate slates.

Others nominated were: Roy Wilkins, Queens, former national director of the NAACP; Mrs. Marietta Tree, Manhattan, a U.S. delegate to the United Nations Trusteeship Council.

William J. vanden Heuvel, Manhattan, an attorney who was considered for the lieutenant governor's nomination.

Allan Campbell, a Syracuse University professor.

Henry L. Ughetta, justice of the State Supreme Court's Appellate Division, Second District, Brooklyn.

Arthur Levitt Jr., Manhattan, an investment broker and son of the state comptroller.

Bernard Botin, presiding justice of the State Supreme Court's Appellate Division, First Department, New York City.

Monroe Goldwater, counsel to the Democratic State Committee.

John Doerr, Buffalo, a former state senator.

Miss Antonia Pantoja, executive director of ASPIRA, a Puerto Rican social action group in New York City.

Daniel Flanagan, a Scarsdale businessman.

George Carroll, Queens, sergeant at arms of the Democratic State Committee.

John Moran, Queens, businessman.

Receive Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Lake Ontario community of Brownville and Farnham in western New York are the recipients of federal loans totaling $26,000, primarily for use in sewage-facility planning.

The Housing and Urban Development Department awarded $23,000 Wednesday to Brownville for planning a sewage plant and municipal garage, estimated to cost $379,000.

The department awarded $3,000 to Farnham for planning sewer facilities to cost an estimated $302,000.

Appoint Jersey College Head to Cobleskill Post

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Walton A. Brown, president of Atlantic Community College at Mays Landing, N.J., was appointed today as president of the State University Agricultural and Technical College at Cobleskill.

The appointment, made by the State University Board of Trustees, is effective Dec. 10. The job pays $20,000 a year.

Brown has been president of the Atlantic Community College for 12 years. He also has been on the faculty at Adirondack Community College and Orange County Community College.

Brown succeeds Dr. Edward J. Sakol, who resigned in February to become president of Sauk Valley Junior College at Sherling, Ill.

Copper Prices Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Two major copper producers raised their prices by two cents a pound today in a break with government recommended guidelines.

The increase from 36 to 38 cents a pound was announced Wednesday by the Copper Range Co. and the Inspiration Consolidated Copper Co. There was no immediate reaction from the government.

A spokesman for Copper Range said "the company respects the government's efforts to hold raw materials prices at the lowest possible levels" but that it was unable to delay action any longer "in the face of forces beyond our control."

An attempt by Copper Range to make an identical price increase last November received support from most of the industry but was rescinded under government pressure.

Former Cabinet Member to Speak At MD's Parley

PLAINVIEW, N. Y. —Marion B. Folsom, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, under President Eisenhower, will give the keynote address at the Association of New York State Physicians and Dentists' first statewide meeting, Oct. 16 in Syracuse.

Folsom, in accepting the Association invitation, said, "The newly-formed Association of New York Physicians and Dentists has adopted a constructive and effective program to call the attention of the public, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Congress to the deficiencies of the New York State Medicaid plan and the fact that it doesn't seem to be consistent with the intent of Congress when Title 19 of the Social Security Act was passed."

The Association, formed in May, has strongly opposed the New York State Medical plan, however, its membership endorses Title 19 of the Social Security Act which would provide welfare medical care to the indigent.

ANYSPD has conducted a legal and educational campaign to have Congress or the Department of Health, Education and Welfare take action to force New York State to comply with the intent of the Federal legislative act.

Appraisers Group Plans Meeting For Wednesday

The regular monthly meeting of Mid-Hudson Chapter No. 123 of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers will be held Wednesday at the Little Brook Farm Restaurant on Plattekill Turnpike. Social hour 6 p. m. dinner served at 6:30 sharp.

The speaker will be Lawrence Lagarenne, attorney. Lagarenne has been engaged in the practice of law since 1947. He graduated from Cornell Law School and as an undergraduate was a member of the Board of Editors of that school. He is past president of the Sullivan County Bar Association and is presently a member of the New York State Bar Association Grievance Committee.

Lagarenne is associated with the law firm of Wiess and Costa in Monticello and is widely experienced in condemnation work both as attorney for condemnors and condemnees.

Wives, business associates and guests are cordially invited. Members planning to attend from Kingston may call president, Mrs. Adele Royce for reservations by Monday.

Mrs. Royce urges all members to make a special effort to attend this meeting. The nominating committee will be appointed and other important business will be transacted.

RED SHADOW OVER THAILAND
More is at stake in the Viet Nam war than Viet Nam alone.
The administration believes — and most Americans seem to share this belief — that the future of all Southeast Asia hinges upon the success or failure of the resistance to Communist designs on this one land.
Lately, however, evidence has been accumulating that the Communists are not waiting upon the outcome in Viet Nam to expand their operations in Southeast Asia. In Thailand, a remarkably small number of Communist insurgents — the Thai Cong — are beginning to cause the government a remarkably great amount of trouble.
The similarity between Thailand today and Viet Nam a few years ago is disturbing. Here again, a military government — albeit a popular one — is combating the same terrorism, experiencing the same difficulties in winning the loyalty of the peasants and committing the same errors as did a succession of regimes in South Viet Nam.
The similarity is disturbing, at least, to that implacable critic of President Johnson's tactics in Viet Nam, Sen. J. William Fulbright. The senator, who fears we may be sliding into another Viet-type war, has announced hearings by his Foreign Relations Committee on U.S. policy in Thailand.
Already there are more U.S. troops in Thailand than were in South Viet Nam at this time a year ago, although the majority are Air Force personnel stationed at bases from which strikes against North Viet Nam and the Ho Chi Minh trail are launched.
But the Thai government is reportedly pressing for more active U.S. aid against the Communists on its territory in the form of more counter-insurgency teams and American-piloted helicopters.
The unpleasant surprise story of 1966 was the unforeseen willingness and capacity of the Communists in Viet Nam to take and dish out punishment on every level of escalation.
It is to be hoped that the unpleasant surprise of 1967 will not concern Thailand.
Experts think the world of the future may need some kind of international money. In the present, most of us need more of the ordinary kind.
BLOW TO BASIC RESEARCH
There is no getting around the fact that a system of priorities must govern the spending of public funds. With that in mind, rather a good case could be made for the recent action of Congress cutting off funds for Project Mohole. Obviously there are many things America needs worse than a six-mile-deep hole which scientists want to drill as a means of learning more about the structure and dynamics of the earth.
There is reason for dismay, however, when one considers this action as part of a trend away from support of basic research. On the face of it that sounds practical. The truth is that as we cripple basic research we reduce our chances of opening up new scientific vistas for the future. Scuttling Mohole may have had some short-range justification, but over the long haul it will prove to be a mistake.
THE MAIN PURPOSE
Opponents of auto safety legislation fought it before passage by saying over and over again that such a measure was a fraud because it would not significantly cut down on the numbers of auto accidents. Now detractors of the federal auto safety law, having been unable to halt its enactment, are busy saying in effect: Wait and see; the law's going to be a big disappointment because it won't reduce the number of highway accidents as people expect it to do.
If the public expects that, those who have reiterated this misstatement so often must bear a good deal of the blame. They have been perpetrating a deception. To attack the auto safety law on the grounds that it will not reduce the number of accidents is false because the law is not basically intended to do that. Its main thrust is, rather, to lessen the toll of injury and death when accidents do happen.
Most of the safety devices that will become standard equipment as a result of this legislation will not prevent accidents.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

LADY BIRD VERSUS BEATNIK TASTES

Athens, Greece — Lady Bird Johnson wants to clean up and beautify America. But there are beatniks — U.S. beatniks — on the Acropolis, looking out from shaggy visages at the timeless proportions of the Parthenon.
The moral of this juxtaposition may seem a bit remote. But let's explore the connections. In the small cities of the German Rhineland, where I have just spent a short time, one is constantly impressed by the beauty that is assembled with very little effort save for what is put forth on a personal basis by individuals. Even in the ugly new high-rise apartments that occasionally break in on the harmony of older architectural styles the situation is saved, in August at least, by a riot of color. There can't be a German hausfrau who doesn't love window boxes, which can rise tier on tier. Even the smallest plot of ground has its garden, with some space given over to geraniums, morning glories and tall sunflowers among the utilitarian beets and lettuce. And in the morning, before breakfast, even the most proletarian householder or renter is out sweeping his sidewalk to the curb.
None of this has to do with State appropriations, although there may be civic ordinances involving cleanliness. It is something that proceeds from within people. The civilization is gemütlich because, like so many cats, the individuals who compose it are bred from babyhood in fastidious ways. In the city of Freiburg, a university town, everything has a washed look; the farmers may litter the market-place with shuckings from vegetables in the morning, but by afternoon there isn't so much as a sprig of cabbage or a beet top on the cobblestones.
One's mind goes from this to Lady Bird's crusade to get Americans to look after their landscape, be it rural or urban. Her husband, the man in the White House, is promoting the idea of demonstration cities, to be made over the expenditure of large sums of money. It won't work — and my reason for saying this is that American cities need more than money for their regeneration. They could be clean and beautiful now if people had it in them to cultivate a sense of beauty. What American city householder or renter would sweep his own sidewalk, for example? Where is the color of flowers save in an occasional spot? Where are the voluntary tenement or housing development renters' associations, with groups organized to get rid of refuse and so keep the rats on a starvation diet? Granted that it is hard to get things on little money, the beer cans are in the gutter not because people are poor.
Everything that Lady Bird says is commendable, and her efforts to proselytize may bear some slow fruit. But cultures change as glaciers move, by inches. Americans have always had a large and empty country, and they have been bred to regard space as expendable. If the central city develops drawbacks, you pick up and move to a suburb. The beer can on the empty cigarette because nobody lives there anyway, and the rain can be counted on to disintegrate them before they offend many people who might care.
The feeling that space is expendable will disappear as the population becomes more and more packed in larger metropolitan areas. But the question is whether the esthetic sense of the people will be able to cope with the change. This is where those beatniks whom I saw climbing on the Acropolis come in. The lamentable fact is that just when Lady Bird Johnson is setting forth on her crusade for cleanliness and beauty, we seem to have a younger generation whose avant garde is oblivious to esthetic values as applied to their own persons.
Well, as they say, it's no skin off my nose. I can share the Parthenon with a few beatniks without having it spoil my own sense of awe and wonder. But if a generation grows up that doesn't care about personal appearances, why should it care about those junkyards and heaps of garbage that Lady Bird Johnson has sworn to abolish? The answer is that it won't.
Half the U.S. population, they tell us, is under 25. If the beatnik tastes prevail Lady Bird is fighting a doomed battle for a lost cause. And her husband has been shoeing all that beautiful money out of the window.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Despite the endless talk, there is still no real likelihood that President Johnson will propose general income tax increases before 1967 — if then.
The reasons go beyond the old and obvious bit about no tax hikes in an election year.
In fact, though there is official discussion of some less than general tax increase which might be slapped on quickly by the dying 89th Congress, even that has serious drawbacks.
Tricky aspects are involved in the move most often mentioned — temporary suspension of the 7 per cent investment credit given businesses, which invest in new equipment.
This would be aimed, of course, at throttling down record investment outlays, a decisive element in today's overheated economy.
In the matter of general individual and corporate income taxes, it is a very good bet that if the President should ultimately ask for increases they will be tied tightly to the rising requirements of the Viet Nam war.
Economists and government officials debate continuously the use of tax boosts as a weapon against inflation. But the truth is that in the whole post-Hoover era of big government they have never been broadly applied solely and specifically for that purpose.
Since World War II ended two decades ago, there have been four separate reductions in individual income levies and just two increases. These latter came back to back in 1950 and 1951 and were justified officially by the vast outlays of the Korean war. Corporate taxes were elevated in those same years and at no other time in the 20-year period.
Conscious of that history, Lyndon Johnson will not move on the general tax front (if he does at all) until he can point to the Viet Nam war's extra demands, estimated at $10 billion to $15 billion for next January, and say: "Our boys fighting in the rice paddies must have this money."
The top economists who argue confidently that, even without the justification of war outlays, a tax increase should be voted as an inflation-dampener have no modern U. S. historical experience to back them up.
Other economists believe that an anti-inflation tax increase, unless perfectly timed, can plunge the country into sharp recession. And some of these think that in the straining U. S. economy of September, 1966, the time for a tax hike is already past.
They argue this notwithstanding the prospect of higher war spending, big union wage demands to come and other upward pressures.
If anything holds the President back from using the tax-increase device in early 1967 will be the uncertainty many specialists feel as to its full effects upon an economy with presently visible soft spots which threaten to grow bigger.
The same kind of vagueness surrounds the proposal to suspend the 7 per cent tax credit for new business investment.
On the surface there would seem no simpler or more direct way to curb capital expenditures which have, for the second straight year, been rising at an astonishing 17 per cent over the previous year. The $61 billion estimated to be spent for plant and equipment in 1966 easily outdoes war outlays in heating up the economy.
Yet business survey specialists don Johnson will not move on the general tax front (if he does at all) until he can point to the Viet Nam war's extra demands, estimated at $10 billion to $15 billion for next January, and say: "Our boys fighting in the rice paddies must have this money."

Man has been trying to establish a link of communication with the animal world for centuries. Some progress has been made with apes. But the breakthrough is now imminent with porpoises. Near the Scripps laboratory at La Jolla, California, and off the coast of Andros in the Bahamas, men are now speaking to this frolicsome fish in code, and getting responses.
The porpoise is black or gray on top, and white underneath. It is a member of the whale family, with lateral flukes, a warm-blooded, air-breathing animal. The stiff lips form a permanent smile and behind them are 80 to 100 teeth. The porpoise lives about 30 years, and its proper name is Phocoena. Some call him a bottle-nosed dolphin.
His size ranges from 4 to 10 feet and, every half minute, he must come to the surface for air. He mates in late summer, and his babies are born a year later. The mother-to-be emits squeaks and whistles undersea, and a female porpoise hears the sound in tiny ear-holes behind the eyes, and races to her assistance.
The baby is born tailfirst and requires air at once. The baby sitter shoves the infant to the surface while the mother rests below. The newborn is then taken below for feeding. It consists of milk from the mother, but a slow feeding would keep the baby from breathing air, so mother has a huge muscle in her mammary gland, which squirts the milk into the little mouth with force. The young then flip to the surface to breathe. The female baby sitter remains with the mother for several weeks, to help.
In 1938, Adolf Frohn began to train the first porpoises at Marineland near St. Augustine, Florida. He was surprised to find that these happy-go-lucky creatures could be taught to play ball, walk on their tails, leap for a fish by calling the individual names of the porpoises, and even pick sea shells from the bottom of a tank and come to the surface and throw them to spectators.
Frohn is now at the Miami Aquarium, but his original work started a chain of startling scientific studies. National Geographic Magazine became so interested that it sent Robert L. Only to the U. S. Navy project at Andros Island.
First, it was learned that the porpoise has a bigger and perhaps more complex brain than the human being. Second, it has sensitive sonar in its bottle nose. On a signal for a test, one porpoise signalled back: "All right. Let's go." Another could count from one to ten by beeps. A third, in murky water, was asked to find a 2 1/2-inch ball. A second ball, 2 1/2 inches, was placed beside it. The porpoise, a female, picked the right one with ease. When two 2 1/2 balls were placed in a tank, she found them, studied the situation, and backed off.

At Sealab II, off San Diego, a porpoise named Tuffy wore a plastic harness and carried mail from the surface to divers, who were living in bells 205 feet below. When one diver faked helplessness, Tuffy grabbed a nylon line, ran it to him, and towed him back to the seabed.
At Andros, two others, Dolly and Dinah, ran away. They were headed for Europe. A scientist chased them in an outboard, put an electric beeper underwater, and asked them to return. They swung around and followed him, grinning and splashing, to the school behind the nets. One trainer, testing the sonar sensitivity of the porpoises, taught them that when he slapped the surface of the water, it meant they would get a fish. He started with Dolly and Dinah 50 feet away.
Eventually, he did it when they were a mile away and they zeroed in on his hand and raced to his side, to hold their grins up until the reward came. The Navy is now trying to get them to follow a two-man submarine. At the moment, the possibilities are almost limitless. Porpoises, at great distances from each other, emit snapping sounds, buzzes of many kinds, and beeps. Both Frohn and the scientists have tape-recorded these, and feel that it is a language.
Ironically, the scientists are slower deciphering it than the porpoises are in understanding man's electric pingers and slap-on-water. Porpoises seem to understand the difference between underwater "words" from each other. They know, for example, whether a mid-wife is required, males to fight off an attack of sharks, mating, or just more frolicking.

A porpoise has one nostril, with two valves. When it breathes air, it inhales up to two gallons of air. Only, who wondered about it, found that they sleep underwater with one eye open and surface regularly to take the deep breath, then go below again for twenty winks.
One girl with the National Geographic group played with a porpoise so long that, when she left, the mammal wailed with loneliness.
The Navy expects to learn sophisticated sonar from porpoises. Now the men are so enthused that they want to communicate in language with the happiest fish in the sea.

Nearly One-Sixth Of Africa Still Has Race Problem

By LYNN HEINZERLING
LONDON (AP) — Nearly one-sixth of the African continent is still troubled with racial problems 10 years after the rush toward independence started.

That huge area, a little less than 2 million square miles, includes South Africa, Rhodesia, Angola and Mozambique at the southern end of the continent.

Lumped Together

Although African leaders often lump them together as "colonialist Africa" or "white-ruled Africa," in racial attitudes they do not lump easily.

Apartheid in South Africa is stronger medicine for the black man than the segregation practiced in Rhodesia. Both South Africa and Rhodesia frown on the easier interracial relationships which flourish in Angola and Mozambique between lower-class Portuguese whites and Africans.

Portuguese officials in Angola and Mozambique openly differ with South Africa's apartheid policy of strict segregation.

The Portuguese for centuries have mixed with many races, including the Africans. They encourage mixed farming communities and welcome interracial marriages.

Admit Problem

The Portuguese do not admit to enforced segregation in Angola and Mozambique although they freely acknowledge there is "economic segregation." Any African is entitled to eat in the fanciest restaurants if he has the money, but not many have it.

On one aspect of the racial question, however, white South Africans, Rhodesians and Portuguese are united. They do not intend to have "one man, one vote" or black rule as long as they can fight it off. And they have the guns.

Segregation in South Africa is about as total as it can be in a society where Africans do most of the heavy work.

There are about 12 million Africans in South Africa. Slightly more than a third of them live in "homelands" or reserves. Another third work on the farms and the rest live outside the cities and towns where they work.

The harshest penalties of apartheid fall on the Africans living around the cities.

They travel to work on their own trains and buses. They have their own second-class taxis with African drivers. They go to their own schools and churches. They must always carry their passes or go to jail.

In restaurants frequented by whites, Africans may serve, cook or wash dishes but never eat. They are barred from "white hotels."

More than 600,000 Africans live in a vast series of segregated villages constructed by the government outside Johannesburg. They stream into the city every day to work.

The pattern is similar in Salisbury and Bulawayo, the main cities of Rhodesia. But there are differences.

Park benches in Johannesburg are for "whites only." Salisbury's main park is the favorite public resting place for Africans, on the benches and on the grass. Whites also use the benches.

In Johannesburg, Africans have their own entrances and counters in the post offices and public buildings. In Salisbury, whites and blacks enter the post offices by the same door and line up amicably together.

All Salisbury taxis are driven by Africans and they carry both races. There are several good multiracial hotels. Africans and whites eat together in some restaurants.

Rhodesia has a university which admits both races. In South Africa, the government is providing Bantu universities for the African tribes, barring them from white schools. Rhodesia has 13 Africans in its Parliament of 65 members. South Africa does not tolerate this.

Angola and Mozambique also are building schools for Africans, and a small number have been sent to universities in Lisbon.

Safety Play Best Chance

By Oswald &amp; James Jacoby

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Correct trump management frequently leads to the use of safety plays. These are designed to give declarer the best chance for his contract rather than the best play for a lot of tricks.

South did not care much for safety plays. He ruffed the diamond lead in dummy, led a trump to his ace, ruffed his last diamond, came back to his hand with a club and led his king of trumps. When East showed out, South led a third trump to East's queen.

East led a spade and two spade tricks set poor South.

South had the bad fortune that so frequently attends careless declarers. If trumps had broken he would have made seven; if West held the long trumps or if East held the spade honors South would still have made his contract.

A lot of ifs, but a sure thing is always better than a chance. When East played the four of hearts at trick two, South should have made his contract as safe as possible by playing the nine spot.

West would make a surprise trick with the jack but the best he could do after that would be to cash his ace of spades and

This wasn't a perfect safety play. If East happened to be void of clubs West could give his partner a club ruff. On the other hand, a 3-1 break is a common occurrence; a 4-0 break an uncommon one.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By Sophie Miller

The other day, at a book sale, I bought First Book of Anatomy, Physiology, and Hygiene for grammar schools and families with 83 engravings. It was written by Calvin Cutter, M.D. in Warren, Mass., in 1852. They explain simply that "All organized bodies have a limited period of life, and this period varies with every species. The duration of some plants is limited to a single summer, as many garden flowers; while some trees, as the olive, live many hundred years. Some animals live but a short time, while the elephant lives more than a century."

To pick a flower, or catch a butterfly that has such a short life or to mow a lawn full of lovely early spring golden dandelions makes one sad. Lucky is the dandelion which grows in the freedom of the fields and meadows with other freedom loving wild flowers, the minute they touch progress and man made dictatorship, their heads fall.

This book is full of most interesting old engravings, with information and questions at the bottom of the page. One shows the proper way to sit for a school boy. The chair is high enough for the feet to touch the floor flat, and the back straight and plain. Today's school furniture is vastly different, where you slide in and the table is part of the seat, and you can sit in one position to conform to the furniture. If you stand up quickly instead of sliding out, the entire seat and the table arm-rest comes up with you somehow, as it is all one. Perhaps the students can find comfort in these metal one arm-seats. I have noticed that in modern school rooms, the seats are often moved from place to place, ours were fastened to the floor.

This over a hundred year old book explains that muscles should not be used too long, or remain at rest too long; both are alike injurious. "The blacksmith uses and rests the muscles of his arm when striking upon the anvil," and his arm muscles become large and strong. They advised in 1852 that exercise was "best in the morning, when the air is pure and the ground dry, and the powers of the body are greatest. We should avoid severe exercise and labor immediately before and after eating a full meal, for the energies of the system are then required to perform the digestive function."

I remember when I went to Kingston High School, there was gym right after lunch, which I knew then and was told home and again I read it in this book, it is wrong. How many times at home or at the beach I was told, "Sit down and rest, you just had something to eat." If Physical Fitness exercises are done at the wrong time, or overdone, they can cause more harm than good.

They speak of "fresh air" a great deal in this 1852 book written by Dr. Cutter, who also was the author of many other books for colleges and universities along these subjects. He explains for instance: "It is a common remark that sick persons will sit up longer when riding in a carriage, than in any easy chair in the room where they have lain sick. In the one instance, 'they breathe pure air,' in the other they are confined in a room. Dr. Cutter was also a great believer of working out in the light, in the sunshine, and not in the evening or at night. He felt that plants flourished in the sunlight and man needed it too. He wrote of persons whose lives were confined indoors and apartments even if well lighted were entirely different in vigor and health from outdoor people."

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here is another idea to add to the many uses for the plastic lids on coffee and shoring cans.

Stick one of those lids on the bottom of each can of your canister set with a reliable transparent glue.

Have the flat side of the lids against the bottom of the cans so only the turned down edge will touch the counter.

The larger plastic cover from a shortening can is more suitable for the largest can of the set.

This raises them just enough not to be noticeable, and yet will prevent marring or rusting.

Dear Heloise:

Here's a little timesaver: I use pinkie shears to cut out the patches for the children's play clothes.

The edges don't have to be turned under because they won't ravel.

Dear Heloise:

Even though I am a male, I read your column every day.

We have a set of kitchen chairs with steel frames, and the sharp edges of the legs dig out any and every set of rubber tips that I put on them.

The first set of rubber tips had an inner lining of metal, but were soon cut through by the legs. I replaced them several times and finally I got an idea.

At the hardware store, I bought another set of rubber tips and also bought flat iron washers (those which have holes in the center) of the same size. I was sure the washers would fit into the rubber tips.

Now the sharp metal edges press against the iron washer, and the weight distributed over a large area of the rubber tip.

I think it will be many a year before I have to replace these. Many thanks for all the suggestions and ideas I read in your column.

Dear Heloise:

Why not make spice jars out of those throw-away baby food jars?

Take some thick oil paint (such as some that's left over from those paint-by-number kits) and mix your favorite color.

Paint the caps, then use a small art brush to paint the names of your spices on the jars.

For an added touch, I paint a six petal flower above and to the right of the lettering.

Dear Heloise:

I am presently using double-size blankets on three twin beds for my children.

When opened, they hung far below any of the spreads, and when folded in half they became jumbled when the children tried to make their beds in the morning.

I finally thought of folding the blankets in half lengthwise and

Dear Heloise:

When removing stockings, I pull down the tops, turning them wrong side out on the way down and off the feet. They are washed wrong side out, too.

To get them on, I make a pocket-like depression in the toe and slip it on my toes, slide the foot up, then pull it up on my leg. It is straightened as it comes in place.

There is less chance to catch one's nails on the stockings and cause a snag.

Sees Senate Back On Treadmill in Civil Rights Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate climbs back today on what Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield describes as "the same treadmill" of the slow-moving civil rights dispute. Mansfield added that he has no plans to speed things up, "on the basis of the way we're going."

Muster 51
After two days of trying, the Senate mustered enough members Thursday — 51 senators — for Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., to begin a filibuster assault on the measure.

But by the time Thurmond started the debate on the motion to take up the bill, only a few of the senators remained on the floor. Some, reportedly, were leaving town for the weekend.

After Thurmond thumped at the bill for 69 minutes, a quorum call was sounded, then called off and the Senate recessed until today.

Mansfield acknowledged that corraling another quorum might be troublesome — "Friday's a bad day. I hope we'll have no trouble. We're out of business if we don't get it (a quorum)."

But he added that the campaign demands on members might be as great, if not greater, with primaries scheduled in 11 states on Tuesday.

The Senate leader has attributed much of the absenteeism to members campaigning for the fall congressional elections.

He said he still hopes that Congress can adjourn so that members can return home about Oct. 15, even though President Johnson gave Congress Thursday some more work — legislation to fight inflation by temporarily suspending the investment tax credit for business and special tax write-off depreciation speedups.

Threatened Arrest

At one point Thursday, Mansfield had threatened to send the sergeant at arms to arrest and return missing senators if the absenteeism that plagued the Senate since the Labor Day holiday continues.

Thurmond, one of an alliance of Republicans and Southern Democrats fighting the civil rights bill, said the measure is "one of the most vicious, vindictive, politically inspired measures to be forced upon Congress since the founding of the Republic."

Zeroing in on the bill's controversial open housing provision, Thurmond declared, "If this bill were to be passed, the constitutional right and inherent prerogative of an individual to purchase, own, dispose of and enjoy property as he sees fit would be denied."

Driver Is Cited, Woman Hurt in Two-Car Crash

A two-car collision on Route 299 north of Elting Corners Road, Town of Lloyd at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, resulted in the issuance of a citation to a motorist for a violation, and minor injuries to a woman passenger in one of the vehicles.

Trooper Edward Pulver of the Highland state police detail said the cars were driven by John Sheeley, 20, of Modena Road, New Paltz, and William White, 24, of Cottage Street, Poughkeepsie. White was cited by Trooper Peter Bebenese on a charge of driving an unregistered motor vehicle.

The summons is returnable at a later date before Justice of the Peace Lewis DiStasi. Elsie White, 23, of the Poughkeepsie address, complained of a neck sprain and said she would see her own physician.

Troopers reported Sheeley was slowing his car before attempting a left turn and White was passing when the collision occurred.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Terence O'Connor's father called officials of nearby Siena College to ask whether his son could be excused from orientation and registration this week.

Usually, the college is reluctant to make such exceptions, but the 18-year-old freshman's father is a persuasive talker and officials relented.

Seek Annulment Of NYC-Pennsy Merger Approval

NEW YORK (AP) — The Delaware and Hudson Railroad was expected to join the Erie-Lackawanna today in suing to halt the merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads.

The Erie filed suit in Federal Court Thursday seeking to annul the Interstate Commerce Commission's approval of the merger, scheduled to take effect Oct. 1.

The chairman of both the Erie and the Delaware, William White, has repeatedly said they would attempt to block the consolidation of the two larger lines until he was assured his carriers were to be included in one of the big merging railroads in the east.

Lawyers for the Erie charged that the ICC violated federal laws in fixing indemnification provisions under which it, the Delaware and the Boston and Maine railroad would have been compensated by the merged line.

The Boston and Maine was also reported preparing a suit. The Erie's attorneys asked for a three judge court to enjoin the merger and put off final action until at least 45 days after the disposition of the complaint.

The Erie said the merger contained "certain and serious disadvantages" that would be plainly and grossly unjust to it. The line contended in addition that it was deprived of due process in the complex ICC proceedings.

Lawyers speculated that if the Erie won a court hearing, the Penn-Central merger could not be effected for two or more years. The consolidation was approved four months ago.

The Erie serves cities as far west as Chicago, while centering its operation on two main lines between Hoboken, N.J. and Binghamton, N.Y. via Scranton, Pa. or Port Jervis, N.Y.

It connects with the Delaware and Hudson near Albany, providing access to New England centers, along with its Maybrook, N.Y. connection with the New Haven Railroad.

Gives Advice

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant says his successor's primary goal should be to "moderate, conciliate and find common objectives" for world peace.

Thant made that observation Thursday night in a speech at the State University at Albany. He has announced recently that he will not accept a second term as head of the U.N.

Thant suggested that the chief executive of the world organization be called a moderator, as proposed by Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1944.

"In my view, his description of the role was very apt. For the 57 months I have held office, my foremost thought has been: How can I find the common denominator among the contending parties?"

Deputy's Car Is Recovered Today In Saugerties

The car of Deputy Sheriff Gerald Miller, which was taken some time between 8:30 p. m. Thursday and 4:30 a. m. today from in front of 4 Park Street, was recovered early this morning by Saugerties police, who notified Miller the car had been recovered. Until notified the car had been recovered Deputy Miller did not know the car had been stolen. In the car were papers and pictures through which identity of the car was established.

Saugerties police reported when the car was halted three persons took off and a search of a wooded area was begun. Miller said the car had not been damaged but gave evidence of having been driven through a swampy area. Later a 1960 Corvair was reported stolen from Saugerties. It is believed the subjects may have taken off in that car. The car belonged to Edith Simmons, Saugerties.

Solons React . . .

each day by "every means available to us" to sound out the chances for improved relations with Red China and an end to the war in Viet Nam.

No one has communicated anything to the United States on French President Charles de Gaulle's suggestion that America withdraw its forces from Viet Nam.

Pledges Cuts

In his message to Congress, Johnson pledged to "cut all federal expenditures to the fullest extent consistent with the well-being of our people." Moreover, he told Congress, "bills it has already passed have added about $2.25 billion to the spending authority he requested and pending bills could add almost 4 billion."

He said: "When the Congress votes for add-ons to the remaining eight appropriation bills, it must bear in mind that each vote to increase the budget will likely require a vote to increase the revenue later."

This plea for restraint in spending coupled with warnings that budget excesses might require more direct tax cuts — stirred speculation.

Some members of Congress wondered whether a general tax increase request already is being prepared for January. Others reassessed the chances of the $1.75-billion poverty bill and the $3.7-billion two-year program of federal help for elementary and secondary schools.

The poverty bill as now pending is within Johnson's fiscal recommendations, but the education bill is $500 million above the budget. Both measures have had parliamentary troubles and now are being handled under procedures that could make them eligible for House consideration Sept. 26.

Some Take Sour View

Johnson's message, however, contained some reassurances for backers of this kind of legislation. He said "a compassionate and mature people will not make the poor carry the burden of fighting inflation. It would be shortsighted to abandon the tasks of educating our children, providing for their health, rebuilding the decaying cities in which they live, and otherwise promoting the general welfare."

Businessmen generally took a sour view of the new presidential plans.

"A mistake," said Roger M. Blough, chairman of the U. S. Steel Corp., and William F. Butler, vice president of the Chase Manhattan Bank.

"Too little and too late," said the House Republican leader, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan. "He is saying, in effect, 'The Republicans have been right all along.' He has been talking economy for months. Why hasn't he acted before?"

Sen. Jack R. Miller, R-Iowa, said the proposals were Johnson was wrong "when he told the people that we could fight the war in Viet Nam and increase the spending for his domestic programs at the same time."

Appeals for Lower Rates

Johnson said fiscal action to ease the pressure on money markets, where the government is a huge borrower, should make it possible for the Federal Reserve and the banks to move toward lower interest rates and easier credit.

He made a direct appeal to the Federal Reserve Board, which took interest-raising action last December against his expressed wishes, "to cooperate with the President and the Congress to lower interest rates and to ease the inequitable burden of tight money."

The message also called on Congress to act promptly on legislation to temper the competition between banks and other thrift institutions for deposits.

As it arrived at the Capitol, the House was passing one version of such legislation, giving regulatory agencies authority to fix interest ceilings at different levels on different kinds of deposits. The House acted, 271 to 68, after rejecting a proposal by Patman for a flat 4½ per cent ceiling on certain bank deposits.

More Tests for Rusk

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department reported today Secretary Dean Rusk, under treatment at Bethesda Naval Hospital after an attack of grippe, had another good night's rest and was up early with normal temperature.

right to contest Republican Gov. Rockefeller.

Many persons considered Samuels' political career finished after he lost to O'Connor. Samuels appeared out of the running when O'Connor and U. S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy huddled with State Chairman John Burns to select O'Connor's lieutenant governor and attorney general running mates.

Reserved For Levitt

The comptroller's spot already was reserved for Levitt.

Though the leaders reportedly had settled on Orin S. Lehman, a grandnephew of the late senator and governor, Herbert H. Lehman, for lieutenant governor, various Upstate county chairmen and other leaders insisted that Samuels was entitled to the second position.

In one of the most dramatic moments of the convention, O'Connor appeared on the rostrum late Thursday afternoon and told the delegates:

"This is an open convention and I ask that the nomination for lieutenant governor and attorney general be thrown wide open."

A test of strength between the Samuels and Lehman parties developed on a procedural motion and the Samuels' sympathizers won handsily. With the handwriting on the wall, Lehman told newsmen he would not permit his name to be sent before the convention.

Was Confident

Earlier, after conferring with O'Connor and Burns, Lehman had said confidently, "I am the candidate for lieutenant governor."

Samuels' name and that of F. Warren Travers of Troy, a former state senator who never rated as a serious contender, were offered to the delegates.

Moments later, Travers withdrew his candidacy and Samuels was nominated with roaring acclamation.

In a triumphant speech, Samuels declared moments after he was selected:

"You have proved that democracy is alive in the Democratic party. 'The bossism issue is dead.'"

Sedita had to beat off a challenge from a little known Long Island town supervisor, Michael Pettito of Oyster Bay, to secure his nomination.

Also Pursued Job

The Buffalo mayor, a hard campaigner, had pursued the lieutenant governorship, but settled for the secondary position of attorney general, obliging the desires of party leaders to have a prominent Italian-American in that slot.

Pettito conceded to Sedita after it became obvious that Pettito did not have enough votes to gain the nomination.

In other actions, the party chose former New York City Mayor Robert F. Wagner to head its slate of 15 delegates-at-large to next year's state Constitutional Convention.

Wagner's selection represented an effort to place a strong vote-getter at the head of the party's slate as a counter to the Republican choice of U. S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

The Democrats also endorsed Associate Judge Stanley Fuld of the Court of Appeals for election as chief judge of the state's highest tribunal.

The 63-year-old Fuld is a Republican, but the Democrats were following tradition that calls for the court's senior associate judge to receive the chief judge nomination from all of the political parties.

Fuld, a Manhattan resident, will replace chief judge Charles S. Desmond of Buffalo, who retires at year's end.

Robert J. Desmond, chairman of the board, after somewhat lengthy questioning of Jones admonished Catalinotto on his line of questioning and relevance to the subject. Robert Schnell and Franklin P. Several others gave their views including Johnson, owner of the property in question. Catalinotto in presenting the case for his clients also filed a petition with the names of nine property owners objecting to the variance.

Rocky Flays . . .

governor, Thomas E. Dewey, has won a third term.

In a gesture designed to demonstrate GOP unity, U. S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, who had this year considered seeking the governorship himself, placed Rockefeller's name before the convention.

The 1,417 delegates listened to a series of 10 seconding speeches, then swiftly shouted their approval of the nomination.

Happy With Him

Rockefeller promptly hammered away at his contention that O'Connor, the New York City Council president, was the choice of the "Democratic bosses."

With him, smiling broadly when he received the nomination, was his 40-year old wife, Margaretta, who is expecting their second child next February.

Before pushing off on the campaign trail today, the governor called a news conference along with the other members of the Republican ticket.

Rockefeller's running mates, whose nomination by acclamation Thursday afternoon came as a mere formality, are Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson, Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, and a newcomer, Onida County Executive Charles T. Lanigan, the candidate for comptroller.

Predictable Convention

Rockefeller's nomination climaxed a convention that abounded with amiability and predictability.

It had absolutely none of the discord that marked the Democratic convention's struggle to fill out the O'Connor ticket.

There was no debate on any candidate, or any part of the party platform or any other issue.

Taking their cue from Rockefeller, all of the major speakers at the convention hit repeatedly on the "bossism" issue.

The crux of the charge—denied by O'Connor — is that O'Connor last year withdrew from the New York City mayoral race in return for a pledge of support in this year's gubernatorial campaign from Democratic leaders in Brooklyn and Triborough.

In his acceptance speech, the governor left no doubt that he would emphasize that point.

"The issue is joined," he told the convention. "The choice is clear. We must save New York from this arrogant new onslaught of the bosses."

Rockefeller recalled that he had campaigned against the "Democratic bosses" when he made his first successful bid for the governorship eight years ago.

'Big Deal' in Rochester

Referring to the Democrats who in Buffalo to nominate O'Connor, Rockefeller charged:

"They are there to complete the big deal—to deal the bosses in, to deal the people out."

Throughout the day, Rockefeller said repeatedly that he expected the campaign to be "interesting and exciting."

Observers continued to ponder the effect the presence of Conservative and Liberal party candidates would have on Rockefeller's reelection bid. He maintained his contention that he currently is the underdog.

The big question that remains to be answered by the voters on Nov. 8 is how many votes will be drained away from the main contenders by the Conservative and Liberal voters.

Has Doubts on Poll

Rockefeller intimated at a news conference Thursday that he had serious doubts as to the validity of a poll that suggested he would lose by 600,000 votes.

The poll was reported by Liberal chief Alex Rose, whose party has endorsed Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.

Rockefeller said that, before he could give any right to such a conclusion, he would have to know what questions were asked in the poll and how they were phrased.

The Conservative candidate is Dr. Paul Adams, academic dean of Roberts Wesleyan University, Rochester.

Thursday night's demonstration for Rockefeller were the most jubilant of the two-day convention.

Convention officials limited the length of the two demonstrations to 10 and 15 minutes respectively, because of television time commitments.

Nevertheless, in contrast to previous carefully rehearsed demonstrations for other candidates and speakers, the applause, music and parade for Rockefeller had a more authentic flavor.

Mrs. Rockefeller's entry also stirred the delegates and alternates to lengthy applause.

Wearing a white suit, looking tanned and radiant, Mrs. Rockefeller joined her husband on the rostrum and waved to the crowd.

Also joining the governor on the rostrum were some of his children by a previous marriage.

As the huge auditorium was emptying after the convention ended, Rockefeller and his wife remained on the stage talking with friends and interviewers.

Ellenville Will Have Firemen's March Saturday

Hundreds of residents of the area are planning to visit Ellenville on Saturday to view the annual inspection day firemen's parade, which will step off at 3 p. m.

About 500 firemen and auxiliary members from area companies will take part in the event. Prior to the parade, the equipment of the fire units will be inspected by members of the village board.

The parade will comprise three divisions that will line up on Maple Avenue and adjoining streets.

The line of march: Maple Avenue to North Main Street, thence along Main Street to Canal, down Canal easterly to Kilmble Lane to Center Street; westerly on Center Street to Bloomer Street, thence down Canal westerly to the local firehouses.

The reviewing stand will be at Liberty Square.

Saigon Troops

cent of London's defenses against German planes in the early days of World War II.

The spokesman said none of the balloons had been shot down by U.S. planes nor had any planes flown into them.

The ground battle occurred in coastal Binh Dinh Province in mid-afternoon when a battalion of Vietnamese infantrymen encountered an estimated 500 Viet Cong near Phu My, in the Phu Cat central area between coastal Route 1 and the mountains to the west.

The hard-pressed infantrymen called in a second government battalion while the U.S. Air Force threw super sonic Phantoms, F100 Super Sabres and Skyraiders into the battle.

The Communists broke off contact Thursday night, but the Vietnamese and a battalion of South Korean infantrymen continued mopping up today in the area 260 miles northeast of Saigon.

Casualties Light

Government casualties were reported light over-all, a military term that frequently means heavy losses in some units.

The only ground action reported by the U.S. military command was a 90-minute fight between a company of American Marines and a platoon of North Vietnamese army regulars 2½ miles south of the 17th Parallel demilitarized zone.

The Marines reported killing six North Vietnamese and taking light casualties in the action 18 miles northwest of Quang Tri City.

B-52 bombers from Guam struck at two targets in a single raid 35 miles southeast of Saigon today. The planes dumped their explosives on two mountainous just north of the port of Vung Tau, where the Viet Cong were believed to be occupying an observation post and a base camp.

In air activity over South Viet Nam Thursday, U.S. pilots flew 437 sorties and claimed destruction of more than 450 enemy structures, sampans and fortified positions. South Vietnamese pilots flew 284 sorties.

5 Civilians Killed

Five Vietnamese civilians were killed and another wounded when the Viet Cong mined a three-wheel vehicle in another pre-election attack, a spokesman said.

In a hamlet three miles north of Saigon, the Viet Cong agents exploded grenades that wounded four persons.

Twelve Buddhist monks were killed in a security guard in the streets around the U.S. Embassy in Saigon to stage a brief anti-American demonstration. They unfurled banners 50 yards from the building declaring that the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments will be responsible if their leader, Thich Venerable Tri Quang, dies.

The Buddhist extremist chief, now in a Saigon clinic, has been subsisting on dextrose solutions for three months to protest military rule in South Viet Nam and U.S. support of the junta. Other monks began a three-day fast Thursday to encourage a boycott of the election.

Predicts Victory

North Viet Nam's military journal Quan Doi Nhan Dan (People's Army) conceded U.S. military strength, including "a fairly well-developed war industry," but predicted victory for the Communists. It said the United States was plagued by "confused leadership, uncertain strategy, incompetent commanders, cowardly infantry, a white elephant puppet army, ineffective tactics."

Radio Hanoi also broadcast a Foreign Ministry statement calling the election Sunday a "farce" staged by the United States and "its agents." It said the Communists would not recognize the results.

of the oxidizer tank has to be removed and a man lowered into the trouble area, a delay of several days is likely, he added.

The Titan 2 oxidizer is nitrogen tetroxide. It is needed to provide oxygen for the main fuel, a mixture called aerazine 50, in the void of space.

First Major Problem

This was the first major problem in the preparations for Gemini 11 — whose Sept. 9 launch date was set several months ago.

When the leak developed, the countdown on Gemini 11's Atlas-Agena target rocket on its pad 6,000 feet away was moving smoothly toward an intended 7:48 a.m. EST launching. That count was halted as soon as it was determined that the Titan 2 could not get off today.

No leaks were detected during a fueling test of the Titan 2 two weeks ago.

Navy Cmdr. Conrad and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Gordon were to have blasted off in pursuit of the Agena satellite at 9:25 a.m., aiming to catch and capture it in the first orbit, setting a record for space rendezvous.

"The first orbit rendezvous sort of starts the flight out with a bang," explained Conrad. "We'll be using our own information, with no help from the ground. We'll be closing on the Agena three or four times faster than any of the previous flights."

Gemini 9 Holds Record

Gemini 9 holds the present rendezvous record — a four-hour catchup in the third orbit. The capture of the Agena would trigger three demanding days in space that could push U.S. astronauts closer to a moon landing.

In addition to the fast rendezvous with the Agena, these highlights were planned:

Two space excursions by Gordon — a 107-minute stroll outside and a 140-minute stand-up, sticking the upper half of his body through an open hatch to photograph selected stars in a scientific experiment.

Igniting the Agena's powerful engine while docked to streak to altitudes of 83 miles, nearly 400 miles higher than any man has ventured from his home planet.

Other Highlights

Linking the Gemini and Agena together with a 100-foot cord to determine if this is an effective, fuel-saving means of flying formation.

The first automatic re-entry through the atmosphere, letting the spacecraft guidance system and computer do the work as astronauts return to earth Monday.

The first-orbit rendezvous simulates maneuvers that might have to be made in emergency situations by moon-landing astronauts. Normally, they would leave the moon and link up with their mother ship in lunar orbit two revolutions later.

But if they start to descend to the moon and something goes wrong, or if they want to get off the moon and back to the mother ship in a hurry, a first-orbit catchup capability might be critical.

Also, the lunar-landing astronauts will have to use their on-board instruments to calculate all the maneuvers — just as Conrad and Gordon planned.

On previous U.S. Gemini rendezvous flights, ground stations figured the shifts and radioed the figures to the pilots.

Space Walk Second Day

After the initial docking, the astronauts, both 36, were to take turns backing off and re-docking.

The second day of the flight was to be devoted mainly to Gordon's space walk.

The Agena still would be locked to the Gemini and Gordon was to walk over to the 26-foot vehicle, straddle it and unpack a 100-foot dactron cord located under the docking collar, one end secured to the Agena.

He was to attach the free end to a ruler-like docking bar on the Agena nose. On Sunday, Conrad planned to pull the line taut between the two vehicles to test if they would maintain their position without use of fuel.

If this didn't work, he would start the two spinning — like two cars on opposite ends of a ferris wheel — to determine if this method is better.

Such capability might be required in the future on space rescue or repair missions where such a manned spacecraft would have to hover for long periods near another satellite.

Seeks Mechanic's Title

Gordon was to try to qualify as the world's first space mechanic on his walk, opening a tool box on the side of the spacecraft and using a regular wrench and a special tool to fasten and loosen bolts on a metal plate.

Early Sunday, the astronauts were to fire up the Agena engine to dash to the record 863-mile altitude.

They planned to reach that altitude twice before returning to the original 185-mile-high orbit.

Splashdown was planned for 8:33 a.m. EST Monday in the Atlantic Ocean 725 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy.

Gemini 11 will close out the Gemini program. Set for Oct. 31, it also will be a three-day mission to study rendezvous and space walking.

The first three-man Apollo moonship is set to rocket into earth orbit for up to 14 days in December, shaking down all the systems as America pushes toward a manned lunar landing in 1968.

caused future improvement with the board.

Fuel oil bids received from Ballard Oil Co., $0.124 per gallon; A. R. Newcomb $0.120 per gallon and Kingston Oil Supply Corp., $0.119 per gallon. The two-way radio equipment proposal of $3,015.03 was received from Greylock Electronics Distributors Inc. Kingston for installation of modern equipment in the department emergency vehicles and a base station at the maintenance shop.

Citywide installation of new and larger mains in the city's distribution system was reported as virtually completed. The delay in shipment, due to strikes of several special valves and fittings has delayed the completion of the pressure regulator underground vault on the newly completed 14-inch Delaware Avenue main and also a small section of the Liberty Street 16" conduit where it connects to an existing conduit at Broadway.

It is estimated that this construction will be completed on or about Oct. 1 which is well ahead of the anticipated 12-month time limit which had been set for this large-scale improvement.

Despite above-normal temperatures during the past two months water usage in the city was only 8 to 10 per cent above average. Storage at the Cooper Lake reservoir was at 78 per cent of capacity on Sept. 1 despite the continuance of below-normal rainfall from January to Sept. 1. The Northeast, it was noted, is now entering its sixth year of drought with the Hudson Valley area continuing to indicate greater rainfall deficiency than other state areas.

However the Kingston Water System has fortunately been able to maintain normal service with no harsh water restrictions up to the present time. The board will continue to keep its consumers informed as to the status of city's water storage and usage.

Note Improvements

The discussion with consulting engineer Mangano centered on the major improvements completed during the past several years and the need for planning and the scheduling of other needed improvements such as the enlargement of Cooper Lake reservoir, and a complete hydraulic analysis of the city system.

The latter program would serve as a guide to all future water main replacements and also indicate the value of the recently completed water main installations. The need for studies of ground water and other water sources was also discussed and the board directed its engineers to submit an interim report at an early date summarizing the costs of the necessary future work.

Attending were President Paul J. Schatzel and Commissioners Thomas Davitt, William Leehive and Ernest Heppner.

Lutheran Church Resumes Autumn Schedule Sunday

Atonement Lutheran Church, Market Street, Saugerties, with the Rev. Walter Cowen, pastor, holds church services at 8 and 11 a. m. Sunday with nursery care during late service. Sunday School is at 9:15 a. m.

The full fall and winter program of church services at the above times will begin this Sunday, also designated as Rally Sunday, and all pupils should be in attendance.

Senior Choir began regular rehearsal Wednesday at 8 p. m. The resumption of rehearsal for Junior Choir will be announced soon by Loyd Mellander, chairman of the worship committee, as will the feasibility of the formation of a post confirmation choir.

Lutheran Church Women held their first fall meeting, Thursday.

The Fall District Assembly of the Hudson District of the Lutheran Synod of New York will be held September 18 from 3 to 8 p. m. at St. John's Lutheran Church, Wilbur Boulevard, Poughkeepsie. Representatives of the 37 Lutheran churches of the district will be in attendance.

"God in the Space Age" will be the theme of the rally, which will seek to bring together substantial numbers of Lutherans of the area including the youth. Featured in the program will be Louis Kelman of NASA who will talk on manned space flight. His address will be entitled "The Other Flight Director."

The Rev. Hagen Staack, D.D., Ph.D., professor of Religion at Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., and nationally known for his Bible study presentations, "Frontiers of Faith" will also address the group.

The Rev. Charles Moser, of Merrick, L. I., will lead the opening devotions and preach. Dinner will be served as part of the program by the women of St. John's Church. Those planning to attend should notify the pastor of Atonement Church for reservations. A free will offering to cover cost of dinner will be received.

September 18 at 9 a. m., following early service, there will be registration for confirmation pupils. Parents should attend with pupil at the early service, so registration does not interfere with Sunday School, bringing with them vital statistics of birth, baptism, school grade.

Hunter Safety Class
Hunter Safety Training Classes will be held Sept. 22 and 23 at Town Hall, Main Street, Saugerties, at 7 p. m. The courses will be conducted by Charles Riley and Herbert Hommel, and are open to boys who are 14 years of age and over, who do not hold a previous license.

Rule Out Use of Auditorium For Private Gain and Profit

It was "complaints from the local citizenry night" at this week's meeting of the Saugerties Village Board and, as a result, the board acted on one matter; referred another to one of its agencies.

The first complaint came in the form of a strenuous objection from three members of the Saugerties Jaycees, who appeared to protest the use of municipal buildings by private citizens for personal gain. With Mrs. Arlene Childers as spokesman, the trio suggested that permission recently given to Mrs. Richard D. Moore, of Woodland Acres, to conduct dancing classes in Roger Donion Auditorium, should be withdrawn. They charged that Mrs. Moore, who formerly served as instructor for the Jaycees dancing school but is currently offering private lessons to pupils, would be using the auditorium for personal gain, if allowed to conduct classes there this year.

The all male board, faced with female ire, at first tabled action on the matter until later in the meeting, after entering into a lengthy discussion, with the ladies on the entire subject. Returning to what does and does not constitute use of the auditorium for private profit, near the end of the meeting, the board eventually reached a firm decision. On motion made and carried, trustees declared that any request for the use of the Roger Donion Auditorium or any other village owned property for personal profit would be automatically refused.

Permission Revoked
To village clerk James V. Gage fell the unenviable task of so advising Mrs. Moore of this decision. The talented dancing instructor, who had been given the green light to use the auditorium some weeks ago and who had advertised that classes would be held there, will now have to look elsewhere for classroom space, even though some area communities make a policy of charging fees for use of public property.

The second complaint lodged during the meeting was also personal and also concerned money. Homer Strong, 8 Ferry Street, Saugerties, appeared before the board concerning the assessment of his property. He said the former owner had had an assessed valuation of only $7,000, while his assessment for this year had been placed at $10,000.

Strong hoped, he said, that a mistake had been made in carrying over the records from one year to another. If this was not the case, he said, he was at a loss to understand the discrepancy. The board advised Strong that the matter will be turned over to the Board of Assessors and he will hear from them shortly.

Protests TV Hike
Another complaint was lodged by Anthony Hackett, Cole Place, Saugerties, who appeared to say that he did not think Videcom, Inc. of Saugerties should be allowed to increase rates charged by the firm for cable television service to subscribers. Hackett said he had heard they were planning to come before the board with just such a request and he hoped to forestall approval. Members advised him that, to date, Videcom has not asked for such approval from them. Representatives of the firm did appear at a Saugerties Town Board meeting last week to ask permission to change their franchise in order to increase rates from $4.50 to $5 per month, but the matter was tabled until further figures showing vital need for the increase were presented.

Turning to fire department matters, the board heard Fire Commissioner Donald R. McCaig report that the priming pump on the R. A. Snyder Hose Company truck is not working properly. He said an authorized mechanic will arrive shortly to look over the truck and make necessary repairs.

270 Firemen Active
McCaig also presented trustees with three lists compiled by the secretaries of each of the local fire companies, containing names of active and active honorary members of the Saugerties Fire Department. He moved that all members be declared active firemen on the village rolls and that the lists be made part of the minutes of the meeting. The board's action in so doing involved approximately 270 Saugerties firemen.

In other business, Mayor Cornelius M. Cox appointed trustees Charles W. Steele Jr. and Richard J. Underhill as a committee of two to inspect the present condition of heavy duty equipment currently used by the village. Following such inspection, they will make recommendations as to whether or not a major new truck should be purchased for snow removal and other heavy duty jobs.

Underhill, who also serves as parks commissioner, noted that the local beach was officially closed last Tuesday morning and the Lions Playground will close officially this Friday.

Teen Discotheque Denied Periodic Check by Police

The proprietors of the Checkers Discotheque, the teenage dance emporium which recently opened at the corner of Main and Parson Streets, Saugerties, have once again been turned down with reference to a request made to the Saugerties Village Board.

The discotheque, which provides continuous and non-alcoholic night-time entertainment for the young, had previously requested that the village allow its patrolmen to accept positions there as guards during off-duty hours. The request was denied on the basis that such work would involve direct conflict of interest.

More recently, the Checkers, whose decor boasts signs of warning such as Private Road, Keep Out, Posted No Hunting and Beware of Dog, requested that on-duty policemen do anything but keep out. The proprietors asked that they be allowed to make periodic checks of the establishment, entering the building at will and putting in regular appearances as a deterrent to would-be trouble makers. This was not to be taken as an inference that bad behavior problems have been experienced by the Checkers during its run here. So far, there has been no trouble in this respect.

Nevertheless, those who wear the dark blue uniforms of the local police force will not appear periodically under the dim blue lights of the discotheque.

Board Refuses Request

In discussing the request at this week's meeting of the Saugerties Village Board, trustees took the position that previous experience has indicated such activity is not good practice. They feel, they said, that there is no need to create a problem that does not really exist and noted that, if a disturbance should occur, police will be nearby and ready to respond promptly.

That settled that and the board went on to discuss other matters, including a report by doing Commissioner Gregory A. Mulstuy that a number of properties have been thoroughly cleaned up by village crews to insure the beautification of the village. Two other properties are in the process of being cleared of refuse since official notice to owners of existing violations were sent and ignored.

Announcement was made that George Gardner, sewage plant operator, has returned from vacation to resume his duties, and permission was granted village clerk James V. Gage to attend the annual training school for municipal clerks in Saratoga Springs from Sept. 26-30.

Plan Inspection Tour
Mayor Cornelius M. Cox and village trustees also said they plan to begin inspection of properties on the south side of the

Reformed Church Names Teachers, Opens Nursery

Services of worship at Reformed Church of Saugerties will begin at 9:45 a. m. and 11 a. m. this Sunday, replacing the summer schedule of an early service only. Morning worship at both services will be conducted by the minister, the Rev. Orville Jay Hine.

Organist and choir director for both services this year will be Howard Houghtaling. He will direct the Youth Choir which will sing regularly at early service. This choir will meet from 6:45 to 7:45 each Thursday for rehearsal, beginning Thursday, Sept. 15. Adult choir will also rehearse regularly Thursday, meeting from 8 to 9 p. m. Their first rehearsal was held Thursday. New members are cordially invited to join either of these choirs.

Sunday church school will begin this week at 9:45 a. m. The staff has met with Superintendent Kenneth Kennedy to make plans for opening the school this Sunday. The Faith and Life Curriculum of the Presbyterian Church will be used this year with the subject of study being The Life of Christ and the Literature of the New Testament. There is a class for each age in the church school beginning with nursery department for three and four year old children, kindergarten class, class corresponding to each of the school grades, high school class and an adult Bible study group. New enrollments for the school are welcome as it begins.

A new approach to worship and study will begin Sunday with boys and girls in fifth grade and above coming directly to 9:45 a. m. church service for worship. They will participate in village this weekend and this inspection will ultimately include a tour of the entire village.

Before adjournment, the board heard village attorney Daniel Lamb compliment Police Commissioner Charles W. Steele Jr. and the local police force for the low crime rate in the village currently. Lamb said there appears to be less trouble now and there has been less in recent years, and that such problems in the village are fewer than those in many other nearby communities. He attributed this condition to a young, eager police force in the Village of Saugerties.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Sept. 9, the 252nd day of 1966. There are 113 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history. On this date in 1776, the Continental Congress resolved that thereafter in all Continental commissions the words "United States" be used instead of "United Colonies."

On this date:

In 1850, California was admitted to the Union.

In 1940, Chungking was proclaimed China's wartime capital.

In 1943, Allied troops landed at Salerno, Italy.

In 1945, Gen. Douglas MacArthur outlined the policy to be used in the occupation of Japan.

In 1957, President Dwight Eisenhower signed a civil rights bill empowering the government to enforce the right to vote with court injunctions.

Ten years ago — Intergration of Negroes into previously all white schools was causing racial unrest, sporadic disorders and threats of mob violence in several Southern states as fall school terms were beginning.

Five years ago — Indian Prime Minister Nehru ended a four-day conference in Moscow with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

One year ago — French President Charles de Gaulle announced at a press conference that after 1969 France no longer would accept joint command of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Niagara College Site

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State University Board of Trustees approved today a 200-acre site northeast of Niagara Falls as the permanent site of Niagara County Community College.

The site, in the Town of Cambria, was recommended by the Niagara County Board of Supervisors.

Restaurateurs' Outing to Be Held Sept. 13

Ticket sales indicate a banner turnout for the 17th fall outing of the Ulster County Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association, Inc.

That was the word this morning from Jack Masasi, ticket chairman for the event, to be held next Tuesday, Sept. 13, at Gene Whalen's Ulster Landing Lodge.

"Tickets have been selling at a fast clip ever since the first announcement in the Freeman on Aug. 23," Masasi commented today. "It looks like a fine assemblage for the outing of which net proceeds will again benefit various charities," he concluded.

Food servings will get underway at 2 p. m. and continue until 8 in the evening.

The program also will include awards, games, dancing and entertainment.

Coast Prof Named Westchester Head

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Abbot Kaplan, a professor at the University of California at Los Angeles, was appointed today as president of the newly established State University College of Arts and Sciences in Westchester County.

Kaplan will begin part-time duties Jan. 1, and take over on a full-time basis next June 30. The State University Board of Trustees made the appointment to the post, which pay $30,000 a year.

The college will be built on a 500-acre tract in the towns of Harrison and Rye in Westchester County. It is scheduled to open in September 1970.

Kaplan currently is professor of theatre arts and associate dean of the College of Fine Arts at the University of California.

This Sunday, September 11, your new phone number and improved telephone service go into effect.

Starting Sunday, September 11:

■Faster long distance service goes into effect. Individual and two-party line customers will be able to make long distance station-to-station calls without having to tell the Operator their number. (If you have multi-party service, the Operator will continue to ask your number.)

■All New Paltz customers will have a new seven-digit telephone number, beginning with 255. On Sunday, please place the circular number plate you recently received on your telephone. To tell friends of your new number, please use the number change cards we mailed to you recently.

■All local telephone numbers (residence and business) can be found in your temporary telephone directory. Please keep your present directory for calling other points until your new directory is delivered in December.

■Anyone calling your old telephone number after September 11 will be given your new number by the Operator.

If you have any questions about your improved telephone service, please call your Business Office Representative. To call your Business Office, Repair Service or for other assistance, please continue to dial "O" Operator.

If You Fail, See Doctor, Is Advice

Match Test: Could Be Indication Of Deadly Lung Killer Emphysema

EDITOR'S NOTE — In the battle against emphysema, a dread lung disease, doctors are using such diverse equipment as treadmills and plastic table tennis balls. But thus far scientists don't even know the basic cause of the ailment now among the nation's top cripples. The following last of four articles on emphysema details recent treatments.

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Light a match, hold it six inches in front of your mouth — and blow!

Make sure you blow with your mouth fully open. Don't purse your lips.

If you can't douse the flame, you may be a victim of a potentially lethal lung disease called emphysema — and you should consult your doctor promptly.

Even if you pass the match test, but have been suffering, even occasionally, for shortness of breath — and have been telling yourself: "Guess it's just because I'm not as young as I used to be!" — you'd better see your doctor anyway. It may save your life.

If your doctor is suspicious — and facilities are available in your community — you may be referred to a hospital or university medical center where there's special equipment to help diagnose this enigmatic malady.

But, says Dr. Albert Roberts, chief of the U.S. Public Health Service Chronic Respiratory Diseases Program:

Hospital Not Equipped

"Nearly one-half of the nation's hospitals, and even some important medical centers, are not equipped to do an adequate job in detecting emphysema and its satellite cohorts.

A key testing instrument is a respirometer used in such centers as Minneapolis' Mt. Sinai Hospital.

With a clamp attached to your nostrils, you breathe into a valved mouthpiece linked by tubes to a tank device. The tank contains a hollow cylinder, closed at the top, floating in water. Your exhaled breath causes the cylinder to rise — and a pen attached to it writes lines on a graph paper.

Once your lung capacity is gauged — that is, how much air you can breathe in and out, over and above air already abnormally trapped in there — attendants test you on:

How fast can you empty your lungs — especially, how much can you exhale in the first second?

Normal persons exhale at least 70 per cent in that first second; emphysema sufferers score much lower.

A workout on a stationary bicycle is another test. The patient has a tube inserted in an arm artery so doctors can measure oxygen and noxious carbon dioxide in his blood upon exertion. Some hospitals use a treadmill.

At Triboro Hospital, Jamaica, Long Island, N.Y., doctors related plans to use portable respirometers set up in mobile vans ticketed for a community survey of possible obstructive breathing difficulties among apparently healthy working men.

The Long Island study — to get under way this month — will be the first attempt to determine whether early, or potential, victims of emphysema can have it arrested, so as to prevent the usually progressive and devastating effects of the disease.

Men showing suspicious signs will be asked to attend a special clinic at least monthly.

If the Long Island study works out, the Public Health Service — sponsoring the study — would attempt to have such preventive clinics established nationally. Moreover, in the future, you might be able to get a breathing test at a mobile station, just like chest X-rays are now available.

So, now you've found out you have emphysema.

Portable Oxygen Used

The doctors will prescribe treatment including use of a breathing machine. Exercises to help drain any surplus mucus from bronchial tubes, and medications to help open clogged airways — the extent of treatment for average, established cases, plus use of portable oxygen tanks sometimes.

But rehabilitation, even of very severe cases, is possible.

The Public Health Service says two pioneering studies in pulmonary rehabilitation — at New York University's Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation; and Moss Rehabilitation Hospital and Albert Einstein Medical Center, Philadelphia — have suggested:

"Nearly 50 per cent of the severely disabled patients of chronic respiratory disease can be helped to the point of self-sufficiency, and in many cases to the point of returning to mostly sedentary work."

The breathing exercises are designed primarily to make patients accent belly breathing — that is, using the diaphragm, the abdominal muscle just beneath the lungs, to a greater extent than breathing by expanding the chest.

In one breathing exercise, the patient lies prone, breathes against the pressure of his hand on his belly. Later, he uses a sandbag, or other weights.

A variation, in the walking position, is to wrap a cloth around your belly, like a night club dancer, hold one end in each hand, allow the cloth to relax as you inhale and expand the abdomen, then squeeze it as you exhale.

Postural drainage exercises are designed as important adjuncts of medications you have for dilating mucus-clogged bronchial tubes, or for actually breaking up mucus in a detoxifying action nicknamed "wetting down the bronchial tree."

Hand Squirt Guns

Incidental, medications can be applied by hand operated squirt guns directed at the open mouth, or by hand held nebulizers powered by a tire pump.

Postural drainage exercises enlist the aid of gravity in helping clear mucus from airways. But, since the bronchial tubes twist in all directions, the body must be moved in various ways including:

Outline Exercises

Sitting on a stool and moving the torso rhythmically from side to side, forward and back, lying prone on a level bed, and later on a tilted one, and moving the body through various positions. The final exercise in every prescribed workout involves lying crosswise and face down on a bed, then lowering the torso toward the floor.

All but the last of these exercises should be accompanied by tapping the entire chest surface with the fingertips of both hands — a further aid in moving clogged mucus so it can be coughed up.

Dr. Edward Bergosky of the NYU rehabilitation institute, says:

Arthritis Victim Succumbs In Blaze

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — A 58-year-old arthritis victim died Thursday and his wife was burned seriously when fire swept through their second-floor apartment here.

Dead is Percy Haswell, who firemen said, was trapped in the two-story, frame building. Haswell's wife, Geneva, escaped but was burned extensively. She was reported in fair condition at Crouse - Irving Hospital here.

Neither the cause of the fire nor the extent of its damage were determined.

An apartment on the first-floor was vacant, firemen reported.

Man, Woman Killed In Tonawanda Town

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 51-year-old man and a woman were killed Thursday night when their automobile struck a guard rail and an abutment on an elevated section of the Youngmann Expressway in the near-by Town of Tonawanda.

Police identified the dead man as Carl Geist of suburban Williamsville.

Geist was president of Niagara Frontier Industrial Designers Inc. of Williamsville.

His companion was Mrs. Edith Summers, about 55, of Buffalo, who, police said, was employed as a cook.

Geist lived at 70 Sunrise Blvd. Mrs. Summers' address was 1074 Smith St.

Fish Says Foe Confused on Issue

POUGHKEEPSIE — "The Congressman, as usual, is confused," Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican candidate for Congress, said today in reference to a release by incumbent Congressman Resnick.

"When I said Channel Master Corp. has been found guilty of unfair labor practices, I was speaking of a ruling prior to our A.D.A. Congressman's election. "I believe that the unanimous decision of the National Labor Relations Board upholding a ruling of Trial Examiner C. W. Whitmore, dates back to Sept. 23, 1964, when our now Congressman was in active control of Channel Master in Ellenville, is relevant to this campaign and to every working man in this district."

"The case, involving the discharge of five workers for union activities, after Local 445 of the Teamsters International was a duly certified bargaining agent, is important to point out the incumbent's true attitude toward the working man."

"If my opponent takes credit for the good of Channel Master Corp. I believe he should also accept the bad. "It is not his family, it is the Congressman who is at issue here."

Injuries Are Fatal

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — A 20-year-old man from Ticonderoga, N.Y., died Thursday in Mary Fletcher Hospital here of injuries suffered last Saturday when his motorcycle and an automobile collided in Ticonderoga.

He was Peter Gibbard, whose brother, Chester, 11, was killed in the accident.

W. Camp Honors Ex-Postmaster, Store Operator

The historic community of West Camp, north of Saugerties, honored one of its leading citizens Wednesday night and extended recognition for his long service as postmaster and store proprietor.

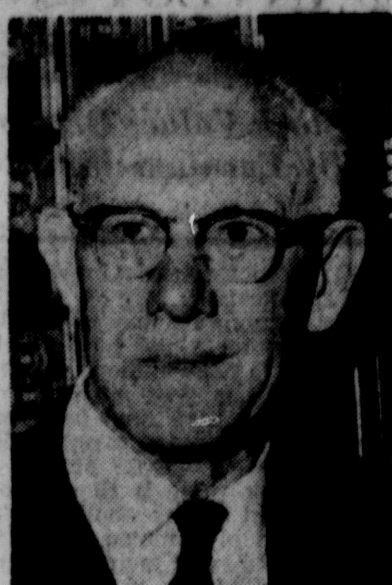

He is Oscar L. Schlenker, who retired as West Camp postmaster on July 31 after more than 20 years of service.

Over 100 Attend

More than 100 residents of the community and friends attended a surprise reception for the honored guest at St. Paul's Lutheran Church parish hall. Mr. Schlenker is a faithful member and former councilman of the church.

Those assembled presented him with an engraved plaque which read:

To Oscar L. Schlenker, dedicated postmaster, loyal church leader, community businessman, friend to all, upon his retirement, July 31, 1966 as postmaster after over 20 years of service.

OSCAR L. SCHLENKER

Given by those whose address is West Camp, N. Y. Zip Code 12490.

A guest book with the names of 200 contributors toward the plaque and a purse was also presented.

The presentations were made by Nelson G. Burhans, general chairman, who served as master of ceremonies.

New Postmaster Takes

The new postmaster, Walter Krein was introduced and spoke briefly. Also on the committee on arrangements were Mrs. Harry L. Moose, chairman of kitchen, and Mrs. Edward Pavlinik, in charge of the dining room.

Recently the congregation of the church presented Mr. Schlenker with an ivory leatherette folder containing Saliman's Head of Christ and a certificate of appreciation.

In making the presentation, the Rev. Alvin Messersmith, pastor, said: "When some one like Winston Churchill, who has served generations passes away, it seems like the end of an era. While no one is indispensable and the world moves on, nevertheless there is a void which cannot be filled. Such is the situation in West Camp. While Oscar is not indispensable, for some one already has taken over the store and the post office, it will not be the same without him behind the counter."

Although he was employed by the church, he served God and His Kingdom by his acts of kindness in service to the church and the community and by his Christian example in attitude and word. Therefore, we present this Certificate of Appreciation in recognition of service rendered."

Schlenker was a councilman of St. Paul's Church for almost 50 years and served on various committees of the congregation.

A widower (his wife died in 1954), he has a large family which keeps him far from lonely. He is the father of Burt Schlenker of West Camp; Mrs. Ernest (Margaret) Tobiasen of Schenectady, and Mrs. John (Luella) Baker, who is with her husband, an Army lieutenant in Germany.

Proposes Revisions

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State University Board of Trustees has proposed revisions in its 1964 master plan, including the construction of four urban centers, one in New York City and three Upstate.

The board also proposed Thursday that day and evening vocational courses be established at the university's two-year colleges.

The urban centers, as envisioned by the university, would be tuition-free schools to train the disadvantaged in useful skills. In addition, the centers would be used to enable high school drop-outs to work for a high school education.

At present, there are four such urban centers. The new ones would be established in Syracuse, Utica, Rochester and a second one in New York City.

The board's recommendations were sent to Gov. Rockefeller and the Board of Regents.

LBJ Supports Chest Drive; List Local Program

President Lyndon B. Johnson last night urged the nation to support their local United Fund or Community Chest as "... the common sense way that neighbors could help each other." United Way campaigns are conducted between Labor Day and Thanksgiving.

In a national broadcast over radio and television at 10:55 p. m. EDT, he emphasized the work done for members of the Armed Forces through the Red Cross and USO, both of which are fund supported agencies.

"The United Fund in your own home town ... needs your support, it needs it in greater measure than its ever needed it before," the President said.

Milton C. Mumford, chairman of the board of Lever Brothers Company and national chairman of United Community Campaign of America, in thanking the President, urged citizens to adopt the fair share gift which "supports the work of many volunteer agencies which do not call on you directly."

Ulster County Community Chest is seeking $299,600 for operating expenses for their 13 agencies serving our community in health, welfare, recreation and character building programs and thereby insure our county a good place to work, live and raise our families.

Charles E. Raible is general campaign chairman and George W. Tamke is associate general chairman for the fund drive. The Industrial Division headed by Ralph H. Stewart and Charles M. King have already started their visitation to major businesses in the area seeking firm gifts and employee solicitations. The leadership section of the Advanced Gift Division under the leadership of George Herbert DeKay and William Merrill will begin their solicitation of selected individuals on Sept. 12. The campaign dates for all other divisions is October 1 through 15.

Kick off parades will take place on October 1 in Saugerties at 10 a. m., New Paltz at 2 p. m. and Kingston at 7 p. m. The parade will culminate at Dietz Stadium where a show and firework display will be presented for the public. It is hoped that Captain Roger H. C. Donlon, Medal of Honor hero of Saugerties; Kingston Mayor R. W. Garrahan, and Chairman of Board of Supervisors Charles Reiser will speak. The Barber Shop chorus will sing and the YMCA will have a gymnastics demonstration. This will be followed by a firework display.

This campaign, for needed funds is a most significant effort of Ulster County. It's a method chosen by the people of Ulster County to support services of the following agencies: Boys Club, Boy Scouts, Cerebral Palsy, Gateway, Girl Scouts, Jewish Center, Mental Health, Red Cross, Retarded Children, Salvation Army, YMCA, YWCA and USO. The Community Chest area encompasses the City of Kingston and the following townships: Esopus, Hurley, Kingston, Marletown, New Paltz, Rosendale, Saugerties and Ulster.

To Head Fish Drive

POUGHKEEPSIE — W. Wendell Heilman, Poughkeepsie attorney, has been selected as the City of Poughkeepsie campaign coordinator for Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican candidate for Congress. In a joint statement, Fish and Herbert J. Haight, Republican city chairman, said: "We are pleased to announce that W. Wendell Heilman has agreed to act as campaign coordinator for the City of Poughkeepsie. In this capacity he will have a high responsibility for the Congressional campaign with that of other Republican candidates. "Mr. Heilman brings more than 20 years of campaign experience to this post, including his participation in Fish's recent overwhelming primary election victory in Dutchess County, and his leadership in the campaigns of Senator R. Watson Pomeroy."

Report Whitman Tumor Would Be Fatal in Year

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Charles J. Whitman had a deadly tumor growing in his brain when he went on his murderous sniper rampage Aug. 1, a team of national medical experts says.

They said it probably would have killed him within a year. But that tumor, about an inch in diameter, could not have been the sole reason why Whitman killed 16 persons and wounded 30 others, said a member of the 32-man panel.

The panel said it did not know exactly why Whitman did what he did.

Not Psychotic

The rapidly growing tumor, about 3 or 4 months old, "could only have been of secondary influence, not the primary cause of his behaviour," said Dr. Harry M. Zimmerman of the Montefiore Hospital, New York.

The panel, in a 16-page report said without a recent interview with Whitman it was "impossible to make a formal psychiatric diagnosis."

"However," the task force said, "the highly malignant brain tumor conceivably could have contributed to his inability to control his emotions and actions" Aug. 1.

They said he had taken drugs to keep up with academic pressures, but "there was no evidence of drug intake on the day of his death."

Whitman, 25, was slain by police on the observation deck of the University of Texas Tower where, aiming through a powerful scope, he cut down everyone in sight for 90 minutes.

Not Primary Cause

Dr. Dana L. Farnsworth of Harvard University said Whitman was not psychotic, but neither was he rational.

"He was," Farnsworth said, "a troubled man, acting on strong impulses in an organized way. He felt strongly something was going on inside himself which he did not understand. He was strongly impelled by emotional influences beyond his control."

Information from friends and instructors about Whitman, said Dr. Hamilton Ford of the Texas University medical branch at Galveston, indicated that Whitman "felt insecure, inadequate in not performing as he should. This is descriptive of inner guilt."

"It all added up," said Farnsworth, "to a man becoming more and more vulnerable to accumulated stresses with which he was dealing in a less and less satisfactory manner."

Admit Cost Error In Viet Nam's Construction Plan

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon admits it misled civilian contractors in the billion-dollar Viet Nam construction program by overstating probable contract awards and underestimating costs.

In the wake of reports alleging company waste and mismanagement, defense officials praised the private combine known as RMK-BRJ for doing "an amazingly competent" job under tough circumstances.

Steered Wrong

The consortium, Pentagon officials said in an interview, was steered wrong on two counts.

The firm was told last December to gear for a $960-million program, then was awarded only $780 million in projects.

The $780 million turned out to be a faulty figure — about $200 million low, and the Pentagon must dip into contingency funds to pay the extra amount.

RMK-BRJ, building nearly 80 per cent of the U.S. military facilities for the war effort, consists of Raymond International Inc., of New York; Morrison-Knudsen of Boise, Idaho; Brown and Root of Houston, Tex.; and the J.A. Jones Construction Co. of Charlotte, N.C.

"The contractor has come to us and said 'you're wrong,'" a top military planner told newsmen Thursday. "He now needs $200 million more to finish the projects currently authorized due to underestimations by the Air Force, Navy and Army."

Must Pay Increase

The government will pay this cost increase under provisions of the company's contract, he said.

From RMK-BRJ's view, however, there is a touchy point involved. Its fee is based on a percentage of the originally estimated cost for a given project. And Pentagon officials acknowledge the company may get little or no fee from the added $200 million — even though low Defense Department estimates were at fault.

Ranking officers said the proposed reduction — from $960 million to $780 million — signified no slowdown or curtailment of the Viet Nam construction effort.

If anything, the building program has expanded, they said. From now until at least January, RMK-BRJ will be completing $35 million to $40 million a month in temporary troop quarters, airfields and port facilities for the U.S. command in Saigon.

The Chinese were the first to produce objects made of cast iron, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Area Man Will Be at Signing By LBJ Today

One of the guests invited by President Lyndon B. Johnson to witness today's signing of the Highway and Traffic Safety Acts in the White House is Paul W. Kearney, West Shokan. Author of the current book, Highway Homicide, Kearney has been active in the campaign for safer car design for some 12 years. His first article on the subject appeared in Harper's magazine in 1957. Subsequently he wrote feature articles on the same subject for the automotive issue of Popular Science for five years, assaying the merits and demerits of the forthcoming models of all manufacturers.

His book, published July 30, is the third to appear this year in the highly controversial field. Unlike the other two, it frankly analyzes the major shortcomings of the driver and the highway as well as those of the car, and makes a strong plea for more and better driver education in the high schools. But the author's conclusion is that: "No doubt talk can alter the fact that the car is the one segment of the highway homicide problem where lasting improvements can be made in far less time than it will take to perfect the driver of the highway."

In its book review service to member clubs, the American Automobile Association said: "Author Kearney makes one telling point: The car, the highway and the driver may all contribute to the accident, but it is the car itself that causes the injury in the survivable accident which dominates this problem." Designing cars for safety, as well as styling and performance, is long overdue.

Since publication the author has discussed his book on the Mary Margaret McBride program, WGBH; the Mike Douglas TV Show on the WBO network and Radio Station WTOP, West Kingston. A frequent contributor to Reader's Digest, he has authored five other books on various aspects of safety.

With his wife, Clara, he also operates Watson Hollow Inn, West Shokan.

Black Power . . .

followed in prosecuting persons involved in the rioting. "They (Bowden and Jenkins) are directed to use every facility and legal authority of the City of Atlanta and the State of Georgia necessary to apprehend, arrest and prosecute to the fullest extent of the law any person involved in the unlawful creation of this incident," said Allen. "Let there be no misunderstanding of our intentions in the apprehension of these lawbreakers."

Earlier, Allen toured the riot area, known as Summerhill, and said, "I can report that it is orderly, neat and clean and that everything is perfectly calm. I am greatly encouraged."

Blamed for riot On Wednesday, Allen blamed Carmichael and the militant civil rights group for the riot. The SNCC members arrested during the disturbance were bound over to grand jury on charges of inciting to riot. They are William Ware and Bobby Vance Walton. The two were free under bond.

Several others were arrested on such minor charges as failing to obey a policeman. The riot began sometime after a policeman shot and wounded a Negro man he was attempting to arrest on an auto theft charge.

Carmichael and other SNCC workers returned to the riot scene to hand out "black power" leaflets but met with little enthusiasm from area residents. Ten policemen followed Carmichael from door to door as he told the residents he did not attempt to start the riot and was not responsible for it taking place.

Residents of Summerhill set up an organization and handed out placards, reading "Good Neighbor Club." Robert McDaniels, 32, chairman of the Good Neighbor Club committee, said residents were posting the signs on their houses to show that they intended to work constructively to improve their community and would not cooperate in violence.

Bond Quits SNCC SNCC lost one of its best-known and most controversial members, Julian Bond, Thursday. The slim Atlanta Negro resigned from the militant organization of which he had been a member five years. SNCC had no comment.

Twice elected to the Georgia House of Representatives, and twice excluded after saying he admired the courage of anyone who burned his draft card though he would not burn his own, Bond had served as SNCC publicity director. He said he hopes to become active in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, of which he is a member.

A local man was found innocent of driving while intoxicated after trial before Special City Judge George A. Beck, and a jury Thursday. The charge, dating to last June 25, was lodged against James McDonald, 56, of 77 Gage Street, after a Gill Street mishap. Attorney James C. Plunket appeared for the defendant and Assistant District Attorney Philip W. Schunk for the prosecution. McDonald had also been charged with leaving the scene of an accident in which that was dismissed, John Lyons, 24, of RD 5, Box 371, Kingston, charged with speeding, was today fined $15.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT JR.

Roosevelt Calls

ty after failing to pick up any considerable delegate strength, assailed both the Democratic and Republican parties in his acceptance speech. He made a demand to "drive bossism out of our political life once and for all."

Roosevelt said he opposes the Democratic candidate for governor, City Council President Frank D. O'Connor, "because his nomination came out of a conference in a back room."

He said he is "equally opposed" to Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, candidate for a third term, "whose nomination came out of the board rooms of the great banking institutions."

Going beyond state issues, Roosevelt said "the cruel, frustrating war in Viet Nam casts a lengthy shadow over our land."

He said there "are rising pressures for mindless escalation" ugly threats to the right of free debate and dissent and a smell of McCarthyism in the air.

Roosevelt said the voice of the governor of New York "should be heard in support of every effort — through the United Nations and every possible channel — to achieve the honorable peace which President Johnson has proclaimed as his goal."

This year is the first time that the 22-year-old Liberal party, which can decide a close race between the Democrats and Republicans, has not endorsed the Democratic nominee for governor. Roosevelt's candidacy is expected to draw votes away from O'Connor and thus help Rockefeller.

But Alex Rose state vice chairman of the Liberal party and its chief strategist, said Wednesday that a recent poll taken for the Liberal party indicated that O'Connor would beat Rockefeller by 600,000 votes.

The Liberal party is generally considered to have two goals in running a ticket of its own: (1) to retain the third place on the ballot, which would be won by the Conservative party if it drew more votes than the Liberals in the Nov. 8 election; and to out deeply into O'Connor's vote so as to increase the Liberal's influence in Democratic policy-making in the future.

Leaders of the Liberal party have said O'Connor is too conservative and has ties to Democratic bosses.

Breakfast Will

seeks $299,000, which is the bare minimum required by all of the 13 agencies for satisfactory service to the community. An analysis of giving in past years indicates that many citizens are not being called upon to contribute their fair share. Every effort is being made this year to give each citizen an understanding of the Community Chest and an opportunity to give. The general campaign is from Oct. 1 through 15.

DeKay, co-chairman of this division has been very active in community affairs such as the YMCA, Kiwanis and Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America. He is a member of the board of Home for the Aged, Kingston Hospital and Kingston City Library. He is a senior elder of the Old Dutch Church and lives on Manor Avenue. DeKay expressed optimism and concern saying we must find a way to raise the funds needed by these agencies and urge every citizen to contribute of their time where they can and pledge generously when called upon.

Merrill of 60 W. Chester Street has been a member of board of the YMCA, Boy Scouts, Kingston Bowling Association and is a member of the Kingston Kiwanis and member of the board of directors of Clinton Avenue Methodist Church. He is associated with J. Richard Miller Insurance Adjusters. He urged every citizen to give a fair-enough for all agencies. The United Way appeal is the only effective way to support these 13 agency services," he stressed.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market edged higher on balance early this afternoon, displaying considerable caution at President Johnson's anti-inflation program.

The list seemed to be gaining a little courage but the typical investor was obviously having a hard time making up his mind what the President's program would mean to stock prices.

Airlines were pretty hard hit at the start, parading a series of 1 and 2-point losses as these companies would stand to lose more than others if the 7 per cent tax credit on investment is suspended as the President suggested. Going into the afternoon, many of the airlines erased losses, some showing slight gains. Some were well ahead as the bullish side solidified its position.

The Dow Jones Industrial average at noon was up .23 at 775.11.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 280.0 with industrials up 1.0, rails off 1 and utilities up 1.0. The progress of utilities was explained by analysts on the grounds that any positive campaign against higher interest rates would make "yield" issues such as utilities share unattractively better as investments.

Consolidated Natural Gas advanced more than a point. Fractional gains were made by Consolidated Edison, Public Service and Electric & Gas and Commonwealth Edison. AT&T was unchanged.

IBM climbed nearly 7 points and Xerox 2.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

The board voted to borrow from the State of New York National Bank, 301 Wall Street, $250,000 in anticipation of taxes which have been levied for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1966 and ending June 30, 1967, in accordance with provisions of Section 24.00 of the Local Finance Law of the State, and that the loan shall be evidenced by a tax anticipation note to mature Sept. 22, 1966, subject to the right of the board to pay the note at any time prior to its maturity and to bear interest at the rate of three and three quarters per centum per annum.

Mrs. Murphy Named
On recommendation of Arthur H. Withall, board president, Mrs. Edith Case Murphy, former board member, was appointed as official representative of the school board at all meetings of the Board of Cooperative Educational Services to keep the local school officials informed at all times of the activities of the organization.

Dr. Hoover reported on the area center vocational programs conducted during the summer months, and he complimented the enrollment program, which included arts, music and drama conducted in the George Washington School, was a success. He also reported that the remedial summer school program dealing with the three R's, and the head start program, brought many complimentary remarks from a number of people.

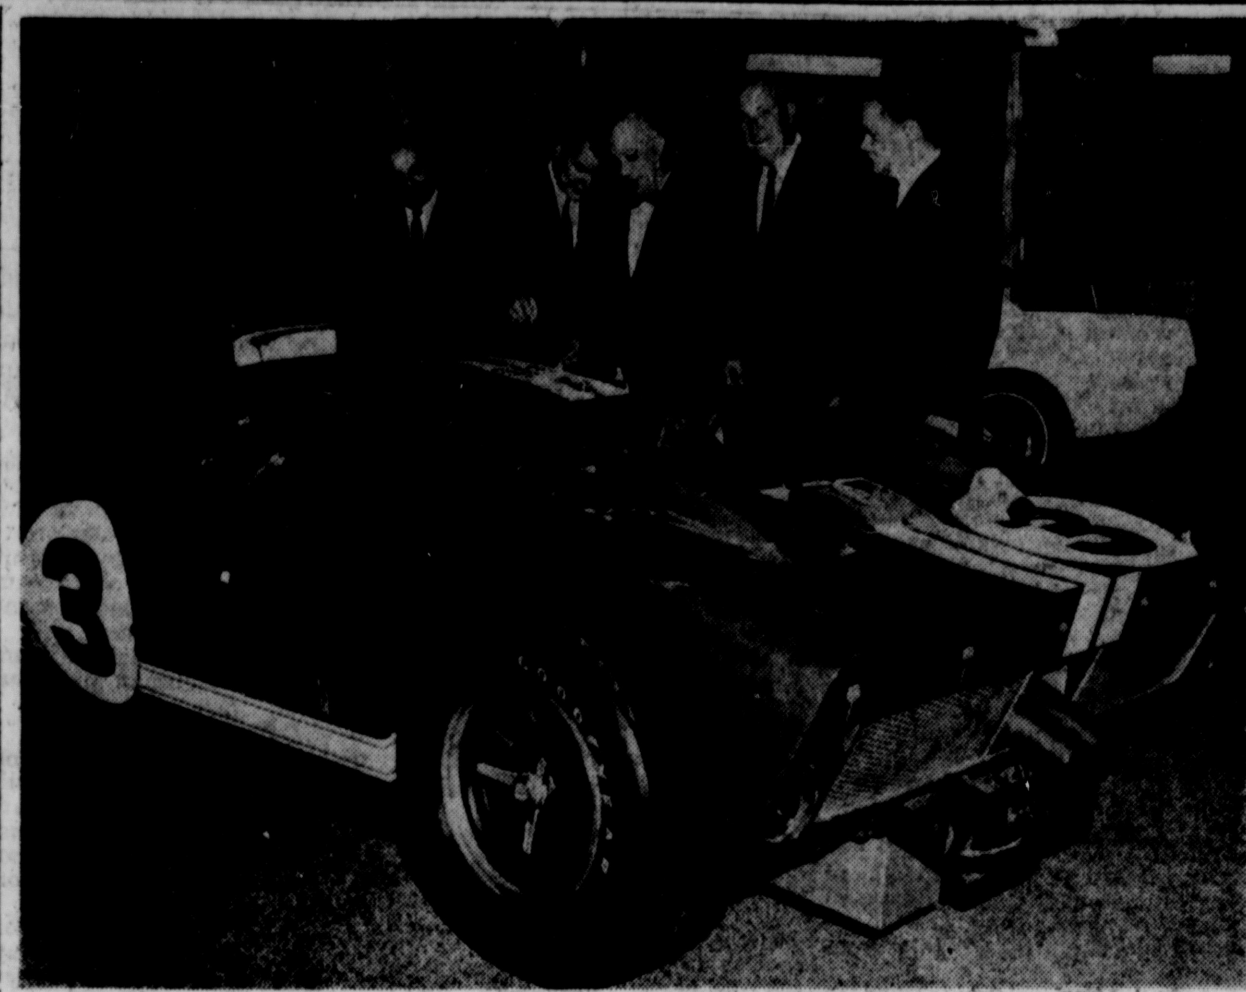

The resignation of Elaine Warren, principal secretary at Tillson school, was accepted. She has moved out of the state. Other resignations accepted were Barbara Benton, Gertrude Schwarz, school monitors at Port Ewen School; Martin Hagele, tax collector and Michael Gorsline, cleaner at Kingston High School.

Award Bus Contracts

Contracts for bus transportation totaling $15,850 were awarded for the school year 1966-67 subject to the conditions of the transportation specifications and other contractual requirements. Awarded contracts were: Acker Bus Lines, Inc., Route 43-A, $4,800; Lake View Transit, Inc., Route 33 — $4,200; Arthur F. Mulligan, Child Study 1 — $1,975; Ethan Allen—Child Study 2 — $1,800 and P. H. One—$1,600; Lucy Perry, doing business as Chappie's Taxi—Child Study 3—$1,475. Bids were opened Aug. 30.

The board in other resolutions awarded contracts to Laura Musialkiewicz for P. H. Route 4 at $1,400 and P. H. Route 5 for $1,000. Ethan Allen received the contract for P. H. Route 2 for $2,126.25.

Sprinklers Douse Grand Union Fire In Shopping Mart

A sprinkler system doused a fire in a rear storage area of the Grand Union store at Kingston Plaza Thursday night.

A call at 11:32 p. m. from police headquarters was followed by an alarm from Box 1432, Fair and North Front streets.

Smoke had been seen in the building by officers on patrol. Firemen said the blaze had started in miscellaneous combustible material on a desk and extended to nearby woodwork and stock. It was reported out on arrival of firemen.

Units from Central and Wiltwicks stations and the Wicks Company, responding with Excalibur covered at Wiltwick Station and Union at Central. The Rapid Company was on standby call, Chief James M. Brett and Capt. Harry L. Sills were in charge.

Officers Frank Kennelly and John Duffner with detectives Harold DeGraff and Wilmont Hall were reported in the area at the time.

The one-story, brick building, owned by the Kingston Plaza Corp., is leased to the Grand Union Company. It continued open for business today.

They included Rosh Hashanah, Sept. 15-16; First days of Sukkoth, Sept. 29-30; Last days of Sukkoth, Oct. 6-7; Feast of All Saints, Nov. 1; Feast of Immaculate Conception, Dec. 8; Ash Wednesday, Feb. 8, 1967; First days of Passover, April 25-26; Last days of Passover, May 2-3; Feast of Ascension, May 14 and Shavuoth, June 14-15.

The 10 days have been recognized by the Commissioner of Education for religious observance on which pupils may be excused upon written consent of their parent or guardian. These days are not legal holidays, and all schools will be in session.

A record high of more than 1,325,000 passports were issued by the U.S. Passport Office in 1965.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING . . .

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst

Stock Values Determined By Earnings Potential

Q) "Stock ratings in statistical publications are a puzzle. What formula do they use? Why is IBM rated A-plus with a debt of close to $400-million, yielding only one per cent, while Pratt & Lambert pays four per cent, is debt free, yet rates only a B? What is book value?" M.Y.

A) Book value is the proportion of net assets applicable to one share of common stock. It is a fundamental factor carrying some weight in evaluating a stock, but usually much less important than earning power as an influence on share prices. I am sorry that I cannot give you a single formula by which to rate a stock. Equally reliable analysts may differ depending on their weighting of statistical evidence.

The stocks you mention show up the contrast between a low yielding, high-priced growth stock and a conservative income stock. Possibly your quoted ratings reflect in part that IBM's dividend is covered 2.18X by estimated earnings of $9.60 a share for 1966 while Pratt & Lambert's latest earnings statement of $3.15 for 12 months produces a comparative figure of 1.8X. From these same earnings come P/E multiples of 34.3X and 11.9X respectively, showing how investors evaluate future earnings and growth.

Q) "When I asked for financial reports to cover a stock that interested me, the firm said none were immediately available. My brother told me not to invest in anything unless the company regularly released detailed information on its operations." A.C.

A) Your brother gave you excellent advice. Most publicly owned corporations furnish adequate information on their activities. Shares of companies which publish limited financial data are not necessarily bad risks, but they're harder to evaluate and more difficult to follow when you own them. The more information you can get before investing, the less are the chances you'll make a mistake in selecting a stock that satisfies your objective.

Divers Still Seek Body in Orange Lake

State Police scuba divers today returned to Greenwood Lake, Orange County, to continue to probe the waters for John J. Svec, 16, of 1059 Lexington Avenue, Manhattan, who is believed to have drowned after a boating mishap Thursday night, Sept. 1.

Troopers said the depth of the lake where the boy disappeared is 50 feet, and overcast skies today hampered the searches who are in charge of State Trooper D. R. George, senior diver of Troop K.

The missing boy was aboard a 14-foot boat operated by Peter Lorenzo, 15, of Hoboken, N. J., when it was in collision with a 21-foot craft piloted by Seely L. Quackenbush, 37, of Jersey Avenue, Greenwood Lake. Quackenbush, Lorenzo and three other persons managed to swim safely to shore.

Some of the hotel's guests fled in their night clothes. Others were dressed, celebrating the nomination of Gov. Rockefeller for a third term and those of his running mates in the November election.

Rockefeller was staying at another hotel. The cause of the fire was not determined. There was no estimate of the damage. Siegel's home is at 338 Clinton Ave. Ostrander lives at 311 Clinton St.

MRS. PETER M. KARKOWSKI (Lakeside photo)

Linda Meyer, Peter Michael Karkowski Wed

Miss Linda Inez Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Meyer of Rifton, N. Y., wed Peter Michael Karkowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Karkowski of St. Remy on September 3, at a 2 p. m. double ring ceremony in Holy Name Church, Wilbur.

Officiating was the Rev. John G. Russell, pastor. Mrs. John Smith of Port Ewen was organist and Miss Joan Lynch of Eddyville was the soloist.

Mr. Meyer gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a slim sheath style gown of Chantilly lace and crepe accented with a scalloped train of lace. She also wore a stylized crown to which was shirred a silk illusion veil and she carried a cascade of white roses, pompons and fuji mums.

Miss Carol Gardner of Saugerties was maid of honor in a slim sheath of rose crepe with silk flowers applied at the waistline. She wore a stylized headpiece of matching crepe with a tulle flirtation veil and carried a cascade of fuji mums with pompons.

Barbara Schneider of Woodstock, Kathy Taylor of Bloomingington, Paulette Karkowski, Ann Karkowski and Ginger Libbos of St. Remy, were the bridesmaids. They wore complimentary gowns of starlet blue, Nile green and pale aqua. All the gowns were styled identically to that worn by the honor attendant.

The bridesmaids carried cascades of fuji mums and pompons. Kristy Emberson of Port Ewen and Deborah Blake served as junior bridesmaids in sheath gowns of light pink crepe with silk floral appliques. They wore matching headpieces and carried arm baskets of fuji mums and pompons.

Russell Karkowski of St. Remy was best man for his brother. Ushering were Herman Meyer and William Meyer, brothers of the bride. Frank Blake of Ulster Park, the bride's cousin, was ringbearer.

A reception was given in Oehler's Mountain Lodge, Morgan Hill, N. Y. The bride and her husband are graduates of Kingston High School. The bridegroom attended Marist College for two years and is now serving with the U. S. Navy.

When Mr. and Mrs. Karkowski return from a wedding trip to Canada, they will reside in Pensacola, Fla.

The Right Thing To Do

By Elizabeth L. Post

MUST CITY DWELLER TRAVEL TO SUBURBS TO SEE HIS DATE SAFELY HOME?

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's "Etiquette," revised by Elizabeth L. Post, has been sent to Sandra Cook of Rockville Center, L. I.

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm 19 years old and live in the suburbs. I am currently dating a man who lives in the city, where, incidentally, I work. My problem is this. My mother strenuously objects to my coming home alone on the train after our dates during the week.

He cannot come with me as he has to be at work very early, and I do not have any place that I can stay in the city. We do not want to give up seeing each other all week, and I have never had any trouble getting home, but my parents are becoming quite excited about it, and we are turning to you for advice.

Just A Few Things

Dear Sandra: A number of years ago, etiquette would have said, "absolutely not." Now, however, we take a more practical view and with the independence and competence of young women today, the old requirement of seeing the lady right to her door no longer is necessary.

But there are certain definite procedures you and your boy friend should follow. He should see you onto the train, and if possible, seat you near a conductor. When you arrive at your town, stay at the lighted station until a cab is available, or if you drive to the station, park your car as near to the building as possible.

If you follow these precautions, I cannot believe you could come to any harm; and your parents should relax and respect your ability to take care of yourself.

One Receiving Line Sufficient

Dear Mrs. Post: When the bridal party forms the receiving line at the back of the church, must they stand in line again at the reception?—Ellen.

Dear Ellen: The only time when the bridal party receives at the back of the church is when there is no reception, or if it is limited to families only. Therefore, when the bride and groom reach the house they only need to greet the few guests who are there, informally.

The correct marking of lines and the amounts a bride-to-be will need in furnishing her future house, are included in the booklet, "The Bride's Trouseau." To get a copy, send a dime and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper.

Cousins-Mellin Wedding Is Announced

Married in a double ring ceremony on Saturday, Aug. 27, 1966 at 2 p. m. in the Dutch Reformed Church, Woodstock, were Carol Anne Cousins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl E. Cousins of Woodstock, and Carl Raymond Mellin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Mellin, also of Woodstock. The Rev. Donald Edgar Hicks officiated and Mrs. Charles Russell of Woodstock was the organist.

The bride wore a gown of silk crepe with fitted empire bodice, long tapered sleeves and sheath skirt with detachable chapel length train. A coronet of seed pearls held her veil of silk illusion and she carried stephanotis, ivy and a center of White roses.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Mrs. Lawrence Larson of Hampton, Va., was matron of honor for her sister. She wore gold taffeta and carried turquoise pompons.

Mrs. Thomas Payne of Woodstock and Mrs. William Mellin of Woodstock, the bridegroom's sister-in-law, served as attendants in turquoise satin gowns. They carried cascades of golden pompons.

William Mellin of Woodstock was best man for his brother while Richard Mellert of Woodstock and Gary Murphy of Phenicia were the ushers.

A reception was given for 75 guests in Oehler's Mountain Lodge, Morgan Hill, N. Y.

The bride is a graduate of Onondaga Central High School and Richard The First Beauty School, Kingston. She is employed in Peggy's Beauty Shop, Woodstock.

Atlantic Song Wins Beauty a Trophy; America's Pageant

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) Clutching a tiny American flag and wearing a stars-and-stripes dress, Miss Ohio sang a patriotic song that brought 7,000 spectators to their feet in a rousing ovation Thursday night. "What's better than a song about my country?" an excited yaron Elaine Phillian said.

The scene was the second round of competition in the Miss America Pageant at Convention Hall.

Sharon had just captured the talent prize by singing "This Is My Country" in a coloratura voice that rang through the huge auditorium.

She shared preliminary honors with another blonde, Miss South Carolina, Barbara Anne Harris of Greenville, whose 36-22-36 figure won the swimsuit competition.

Miss Ohio first appeared on stage in an emerald green, floor-length gown and sang an operatic selection, the "Bell Song" from "Lakme."

She reappeared moments later in a star-spangled red, white and blue floor-length dress. The audience cheered.

While newsmen questioned Sharon backstage, the reigning Miss America, Deborah Bryant, wiped away lipstick from Miss Ohio's cheeks left by other contestants who congratulated her with kisses.

Sharon, soloist for her hometown Presbyterian church in Delaware, Ohio, aspires to be an opera star. If she doesn't succeed in that she wants to work with disturbed children.

Miss South Carolina, keeps trim by eating steak and avoiding sweets.

The two girls joined Miss New Hampshire, Nancy Anne Naylor, and Miss California, Charlene Diane Dallas, as winners of preliminary rounds.

Explain Reason For Proposition On Fall Ballot

Proposition Number One on the voting machine for statewide voter decision at the general election November 8 would authorize the state to borrow $200 million through the sale of bonds for the development and acquisition of lands for outdoor recreation.

Under a prior voter approved $100 million bond debt for the purchase of land for park and recreational facilities, 350,000 acres of land has been or is being acquired for state and municipal use. The debt service on these bonds is being paid off with park fees and user charges earmarked for this purpose.

The Next Step

Now that the state has the land, the Government purposes at the recommendation of the State Council of Parks a $400 million, 10-year Outdoor Recreational Development Program, half of which would be financed through the proposed $200 million bond issue. The remaining $200 million is estimated to come from the following sources over the 10-year period.

Federal funds under the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965 . . . $65 million

Federal funds under the Rivers and Harbors program . . . 25 million. State funds under existing taxpayer financed programs . . . $75 million. Matching funds from localities . . . $33 million.

The proposed $400 million, 10-year program would be divided into five areas of concentration: State Parks, $140 million; Forest Recreation, $40 million; Municipal Parks, $100 million; Marine Facilities, $95 million; Restoration of Historic Sites, $25 million. This program is expected to provide:

Forty harbors of refuge; 150 boat launching sites; 250 marine facilities; 600 waterway improvement projects; 35 beaches; 25 pools; 100 picnic areas; 25 golf courses; 40 nature centers; 10,000 campsites; 500 miles of hiking trails; 400 miles of riding trails; 400 miles of stream improvement (fishing); 10,000 acres of wetlands development; 600 acres of city parks and playgrounds; restoration of numerous historic sites.

The presently proposed $400 million program for outdoor recreational facilities in addition to the $100 million already authorized for land acquisition totals a half billion dollars in government spending and merits careful consideration by the taxpayer.

One View

In 1960 the voters of New York State approved a bond issue for the purchase of land for park and outdoor recreational facilities. The cost of land was rising and land was rapidly being lost to urban expansion and private development. The state moved to purchase thousands of acres of open and natural land.

A special Land Acquisition Account was established to receive revenues from park fees and charges for the use of state recreation facilities to pay debt service costs on the Land Acquisition bonds. Of $100 million in bond debt approved by the voters for land purchase, $80 million has been sold and $10.5 million of that has already been redeemed.

If the $200 million Outdoor Recreational Development Bond issue is approved by the voters, the debt service costs on these bonds as well as the Land Acquisition bonds would be paid off through a new account, the Outdoor Recreational Development Account.

This new account would receive the revenues previously deposited in the Land Acquisition Account as well as a portion of the motor boat registration fees and tax revenues from the sale of fuel to motor boats. It is estimated that these revenues will be sufficient to pay debt service costs on both bond issues.

Another View

Prior to 1960, park fees and user charges were used to defray the cost of operating and maintaining state parks and recreation facilities. This cut down on the use of state tax revenues for that purpose. Earmarking park fees and user charges for debt service required the use of more state tax revenues for operation and maintenance. As the land is opened for use, the necessary staffs and equipment will cause annual increases in state operating costs to be paid from tax revenues.

Parks and open lands are a public concern and provision for them in the future should be made now. But the additional proposal under this program may call for re-examination.

When the state fiscal year ended on March 31, 1966, the full faith and credit net debt of New York State totaled $12.2 billion. State guaranteed authority debt was $500 million and debt like commitments were $813 million. Sale of the $1 billion in state bonds for Pure Waters approved by the voters last year will soon add further to the states' outstanding debt.

Can the state afford to commit itself to an additional indebtedness of $200 million at a time when state spending and state debt is increasing on all fronts? State tax dollars have been and are being used now to construct and maintain golf courses and ski facilities and have caused a decline in the use of nearby taxing private facilities. Would the construction and operation of more such facilities with their tax exempt force similar taxing enterprises out of business?

Should the state construct with state credit and maintain with tax dollars facilities that are provided by taxing private enterprise? Should the state provide and maintain facilities that are used only by segments of the population with tax dollars that are paid by all the taxpayers?

Cannot the anticipated demands for certain outdoor recreational facilities such as golf courses and marinas be met by private enterprise, and shouldn't the state encourage private development of those facilities rather than compete with them? These questions were asked by the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey in Albany.

Perrine's Bridge Featured in Bank Display Monday

An exhibit of paintings and photographs of Perrine's Bridge will be displayed at the Kingston Savings Bank, 273 Wall Street, beginning Monday.

The bridge, crossing the Wall-kill River near Rifton in the Town of Rosendale, was built in 1850 and is the oldest covered wooden bridge still standing in New York State.

Through the years, many individuals and groups have urged that the bridge be preserved as a unique historical landmark. Last month, Assemblyman Kenneth I. Wilson said he will make every possible effort to obtain state funds needed to preserve the bridge. Perrine's Bridge is listed by the New York Covered Bridge Society as one of the 20 covered bridges in the state with special historical or architectural significance.

Long a favorite subject of area artists and photographers, Perrine's Bridge has been portrayed in color and black and white prints from many angles and in many settings — snow covered, through summer and fall foliage, and under striking cloud formations.

Persons wishing to include pictures of the bridge in the Kingston Savings Bank exhibit may do so by calling Mrs. Helen E. Wood at the bank.

Reveals Some Thoughts Upon Leaving LBJ Consultant Post

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Eric F. Goldman, historian and Princeton professor, has quit as a White House consultant, which in his case meant being a bridge between President Johnson and the nation's intellectuals.

Reveals Thoughts

In a number of cases this has been like trying to build a bridge between reality and idealism.

Goldman, in one of those don't-quote-me-directly news conferences where he managed to reveal some thoughts after two years in his job, believes there is still a wide gape between Johnson and his intellectual critics.

For one thing, Goldman thinks there is mutual distrust between the two sides. Johnson is suspicious of the intellectuals' motives and they won't accept him as an able leader because his political maneuverings chill them.

To this writer there is no more blessed, indispensable group than intellectuals for their efforts to keep the American mind working at its highest levels.

But also to this writer, who for more than a quarter of a

Resnick Indicates Growing Concern On Cost of Living

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick (D-Elmhurst) today reaffirmed his concern about the rise in the cost of living, but emphasized that we must not panic. "If we react too quickly, the economy will be thrown through the windshield and recession will result as it did in 1954, 1958, and 1960 under Eisenhower."

"President Johnson and I believe that a slight rise in the cost of living is better than having factories stand idle and men out of work," the congressman declared. "In 1960 when Kennedy came into office, factories were operating at 52 per cent of capacity and a record 7 per cent of the labor force was unemployed."

"I know people are concerned, but I am sure that they will agree that a growth in personal income of 7 per cent under Johnson is better than 4 per cent under Eisenhower and that the 5.7 per cent rise in the cost of living under Johnson is better than the 8.4 per cent rise under Eisenhower in equal 4-year period. In plain language this means that your real income has increased nearly twice as fast under Johnson as it did in the Fifties."

Those who criticize the President for a bad record in office, have no alternatives to his policy that could bring on a recession. On the other hand, the President has acted to reduce business spending for new investment which has been growing at a rate of 7 per cent a year. This has been a primary cause of price increases. He has also acted to increase government income by advancing the dates of withholding.

"Another cause of price increases is the shortage of food products, particularly dairy products. Due to the drought and the drop in the number of dairy farmers and dairy cows, a shortage has resulted which has caused the price to increase. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman is investigating price fixing by marketing groups that also may have led to price increases by collusion. I have advocated policies to increase production."

"Further action of this sort will be taken if needed. It is most important for everyone to resist cries of panic and irresponsible threats of runaway inflation and damaging strikes. Our economy is healthy. Problems always occur, but these are much less serious than those of unemployment and quiet factories. We must reject the counsel of irresponsible men whose policies brought about three recessions in eight years."

century has watched politicians and government leaders in Washington, a lot of American intellectuals live in a dream world which has no connection with reality.

Set Ideal

They set up for themselves an ideal of what a president should be, although they would have difficulty agreeing on it, and close their minds to the reality of what a president is.

In the first place, he is an individual, which always makes any president different from any other.

One will have more intellectuality, like Woodrow Wilson; one will be more bleak, like Calvin Coolidge; one will exude warmth, like Franklin D. Roosevelt; one will have sheer character sticking out of his ears, like Harry S. Truman; one will be a heroic symbol and nonintellectual but magical pacifier of emotions, like Dwight D. Eisenhower; and one will be the essence of grace, like John F. Kennedy.

Had Style, Taste

Kennedy had more than grace. He had style and taste. In any of those fields Johnson is no match for Kennedy and seems to reveal it by his ceaseless efforts to be accepted, applauded and approved.

But Kennedy was an amateur president compared with Johnson in the sense of accomplishment, endless energy, and 24-hour-a-day dedication to his job. Kennedy talked better than Johnson but performed much less.

It is comfortable and comforting for an intellectual to live remotely and safely in an academic world, far away from the bootstraps of politics, and decide how the country should be run.

On the far-off college campus he has none of the responsibility for running the country. He doesn't have to endure the ordeals, disappointments and rebuffs that go with the White House job.

No Compromises

And he doesn't have to make the compromises which a president must continually make if, for instance in dealing with Congress, he hopes for some progress by getting only part of what he had asked or proposed. And it is particularly comfortable for an intellectual miles away from Washington to refuse to accept — in his own mind — any compromise or anything less than the ideal he has set for himself.

This might be considered intellectual snobbery. But to this writer it is simply immaturity. It is easy to sit back and decide what Johnson should do. But Johnson has to go through the grit and grind of doing it.

Compromise, maneuvering, and willingness to settle for the possible are the roots of action in American politics. For instance, there is not one dominant figure in Congress who could be called intellectual. And there has been no president including Kennedy — since Wilson who could be called intellectual, either.

Yonkers Firemen To Get Eye Care

Sept. 9, 1966 — The Mutual Aid Association of Yonkers Fire Department today launched a new service to provide its members and their families with special vision care as a union benefit.

Under a contract with the New York State Vision Services, a subsidiary of the New York State Optometric Association, comprehensive vision care is provided, including top quality ophthalmic materials.

Besides the Mutual Aid Association of the Yonkers Fire Department, the NYSVS has had a plan in operation since August, 1961, with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 645, of Kingston.

This is a planned payment program under which the Mutual Aid Association pays approximately $2.50 per month per member into a fund and optometrists are paid at set fees for screening of visual skills, visual analysis and dispensing. A major feature of the program is the guarantee of highest quality lenses and frames at cost, with no direct charge to association members.

Dr. Harold Katz of Newburgh representing the optometrists at a meeting to inaugurate the program, complimented the association on its "enlightened approach to health insurance."

"Too often, eye care is denied to individuals, especially children, either because it is not easily available or because the costs are prohibitive," Dr. Katz said. "Under this program, all who are eligible will be able to keep a continuing check on their vision and obtain the finest corrective devices.

"Experience has shown that one out of three persons have vision problems. Everyone needs periodic check ups, particularly children — not only those who are known to have eye defects but all children."

"Your program should set a pattern for all organizations which are concerned over the total health of their members and the members of their families," Dr. Katz said.

Pick Colts to Beat Green Bay As NFL Commences Season

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay and Baltimore, the teams that fought into 13:39 of sudden-death overtime to determine the Western Conference champ last December, open the National Football League season Saturday night.

The Packers were without the services of Bart Starr during most of that playoff game, won by Don Chandler's field goal, 13-10. Baltimore didn't have Johnny Unitas or Gary Cuzzo and had to struggle through with Tom Matte calling the plays.

This is really a big one for opening day. The winners will be off and running for the Western title with a psychological edge that will make them tough to beat.

The Packers beat the Colts three times last year but Baltimore has been getting ready for this one since Dec. 26.

A full program of all games is on tap for the weekend in the NFL and the American Football League, which started its season a week ago. There will be a game tonight, three on Saturday night and seven on Sunday.

With a 3-0 break in the AFL opening week, the old hand picker has a little cushion for this tough weekend. He'll probably need it.

Here are the picks (all games Sunday unless otherwise noted).

NFL

Baltimore 20, Green Bay 17 (Saturday night)—Colts get even for that disputed Chandler field goal last year in battle of strong defensive units. Unitas is on target with 5-0 record in exhibition. Packers' attack spotty early but clicked in finale with Giants. A field goal could decide it.

Chicago 24, Detroit 7—Bears have Gale Sayers primed for fast start and pack too much punch for Lions' defense which must hold the fort all day while attack sputters.

Cleveland 21, Washington 17—Otto Graham makes his bow as Washington head coach against his old teammates. Sonny Jurgensen's passes will strain Browns' secondary but Cleveland has too many horses for Redskins, even without Jim Brown.

Los Angeles 28, Atlanta 10—George Allen has Rams moving in high gear with tight defense and improved offense. Falcons are beginning to jell but they are not ready to handle experienced Rams.

Minnesota 24, San Francisco 17—Could go even higher. Vikings can move the ball, so can 49ers now that John Brodie is beginning to hit his stride. Both teams weak in deep defense but Vikings appear better prepared at this stage of season.

New York 17, Pittsburgh 10—Giants beat Steelers 16-14 in exhibition game at Ithaca, N.Y. Bill Austin has shored up offensive line and could surprise if Bill Asbury is as good as he looks. Despite loss of Tucker Frederickson, Giants have edge on passing of Earl Morrall.

St. Louis 24, Philadelphia 21—Eagles sprung a leak on defense against Redskins last week. Several key Philadelphia men in doubtful status due to injuries. Dallas draws a bye.

AFL

New York 35, Miami 7 (tonight)—Jets are unbeaten in exhibition and figure to be too much for Dolphins in Orange Bowl, no matter whether Webb Gambus uses Mike Taliaferro or Joe Namath. Jets bombed Dolphins in exhibition 31-14.

San Diego 28, Boston 14 (Saturday night)—Chargers run hot and cold but should be flying high after opening win over Buffalo. Patriots appear improved but not that much. San Diego won exhibition from Boston 21-13.

Houston 28, Oakland 14 (Saturday night)—Wally Lemm's Oilers sprinted to fast start with George Blanda at controls in opening romp over Denver.

Plan Open Dates Between Shifts In Series Cities

Provisions have been made in the 1966 World Series schedule for open dates between the cities representing the two leagues.

Barring a playoff, the series will begin in the National League city on Wednesday, Oct. 5. The second game would be Thursday, Oct. 6, in the NL city, then Friday would be an open date for travel.

The series resumes Saturday, Oct. 8, Sunday, Oct. 9 and Monday, Oct. 10, if necessary. If the series goes beyond that point, Tuesday would be a day off for travel with the series winding up in the National League city Oct. 12-13.

In the event of a best-of-three playoff in the National League, the series would start Monday, Oct. 3, the day after the regular season ends.

Games Start at 1

Baseball Commissioner William Eckert announced that all games would start at 1 p. m. local time with two exceptions. The Sunday game in Baltimore would begin at 2 p. m. If San Francisco wins the National League pennant all their games would start at noon.

Eckert said this was to allow for the "wind and traffic" at Candlestick Park, both of which increase considerably later in the afternoon.

Eckert said that ticket prices would be the same as in the past — $12 for box seats, $8 for reserved grandstand, $4 for standing room and $2 for bleachers.

Round Robin Golf Resumes Saturday at Twaalfskill

The third and final round of the 1966 Kingston Area Round Robin golf championship will be played Saturday at 9 a. m. at The Twaalfskill Club.

Leon Randall of Wiltwyck and Bill Van Aken of Woodstock, the defending champion, are tied with plus 5 points. Ricky Barthel of Twaalfskill is minus 10.

In the first two rounds at Wiltwyck and Woodstock, Randall shot even par figures of 72-70-142; Van Aken, 75-70-145 and Barthel, 76-74-150.

Southside Wins Consolation Game

Southside Men's Club concluded the most successful season in the history of the Saugerettes Softball League by drubbing Ted's Esso, 18-7, to capture consolation honors in two straight games.

Winner Gordon Frehlig was backed by a 17-hit attack, including a home run and four runs-batted-in by Joe Martin. Catcher Angelo Castillo stroked five straight safeties for the winners.

Next year's plans call for expansion to 12 teams, formation of an A and B division and doubleheaders each Monday through Thursday from mid-May until Labor Day.

Mildenberger 10-1 Underdog Against Clay

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — "I'll fight for my life," Karl Mildenberger said determinedly today of his bout against world heavyweight champion Cassius Clay Saturday night.

The odds-makers, though, don't think the German southpaw's life is worth very much. They've made Clay, unbeaten in 25 pro bouts, a 10-1 favorite to win his sixth title defense and fourth this year.

"I believe in my chances," emphasized Mildenberger, who has won 49 bouts, 17 by knockout and is the European titleholder. "I've trained hard and if it doesn't work out, then Clay is the greatest."

The Greatest, from Louisville, Ky., already is looking past Saturday night's scheduled 15-day bout toward future matches against Cleveland Williams and Ernie Terrell. He indicated that he would meet Williams in Houston, Tex., in about two months and Terrell, the World Boxing Association titleholder, in Chicago or New York early in 1967.

"The fight will be telecast by closed circuit to theaters in London and also via the Early Bird satellite to the United States. The American television by EDT. The fight will start about 3 p. m.

Haynie Is Leader In Women's Play

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—Sandra Haynie said it couldn't be done. But the Fort Worth, Tex., golfer holds the first-round lead in the Pacific Ladies Professional Golf Classic after a two-under-par round of 70 Thursday over the par-72, 6,610-yard Eugene Country Club course.

"I don't believe my lead will stand up," said Miss Haynie after finishing her round early in the afternoon. "There are too many good golfers still out on the course who should have good rounds."

However, the closest anyone came to matching Miss Haynie's nines of 34-36 were defending champion Mary Mills and Clifford Ann Creed who fired 36-37 and 37-38.

Gloria Ehler and Margie Masters are two shots back of Miss Haynie, while seven golfers, including top professional Mickey Wright, all stand at 73.

Although he hit only six homers, Tom Leach of Pittsburgh was the National League home run champ in 1902.

Joe Trimble's cavalier remarks about Mike Ferraro's debut with the New York Yankees must have come as a surprise to the fans who saw the Kingston lad play his first major league game against the Baltimore Orioles.

Ferraro, fresh up from Toledo, was the unwilling pawn in an apparent disagreement in strategy between Manager Ralph Houk and the Daily News baseball writer.

Few baseball writers in the land, not even the notorious Boston gang, can wield the hatchet with deadlier results than Mr. Trimble. His reporting on wartime "major league baseball" are enduring classics in the trade.

Sorry, For Whom?

Trimble's evaluation of Ferraro's first major league performance was harsh and unjustified.

"Ferraro's debut was a sorry one," wrote Trimble. "The kid went hitless and made a wild throw which gave the Orioles an earned run in the fifth inning of the game they won 4 to 1."

So far as this observer could see there was nothing "sad" about Mike's debut. He did what countless hundreds of rookies have done in the past and will do again in the future. He went 4 for 0. He did commit an error but he also executed a perfect cutoff play and otherwise handled himself gracefully at third base.

Let's not weep over Mike's 4 for 0 debut. Aside from Tom Tresh's home run, the rest of the Yankees looked pretty docile against southpaw DeLoach.

Perhaps, Trimble is more concerned about the Yankees finishing last than is Manager Houk, who is calling the shots. The Yankee pilot has been variously quoted on this dismal prospect. One source said Houk was not overly disturbed about a last place finish and wanted to play the new crop of callups as much as possible between now and the end of the season.

The Unwritten Law:

An unwritten law of baseball precludes the possibility that Houk might throw into the lineup for any given game Ferraro, Mike Hagan, Bobby Murcer, John Miller, Stan Bahnsen and Bill Henry. The code says that you don't load your lineup with rookies when playing September games against teams still mathematically in the pennant race.

Houk made it clear he wouldn't violate the code but was anxious to spot the newcomers into games from day to day. Whether he cleared this strategy with Trimble is not known.

Trimble, however, did give Ferraro the benefit of the doubt. He pointed out that Mike had travelled since 6:30 a. m. that day from Toledo to Baltimore. He had to grab a cab from Toledo to Detroit; then a plane to Washington. He arrived in the Yankee clubhouse at Baltimore about 90 minutes before the game. He hadn't eaten since 10 o'clock in the morning.

He Comes to Play:

The rest is history. Houk checked the condition of the newcomers and for one reason or another eliminated all except Ferraro, who had a reputation in Toledo as a man who "comes to play." Area Channel 11 observers were equally startled when it was announced that a "rookie" would be in the lineup. The rookie turned out to be Mike.

Just another small gripe, Joe Garagiola and Jerry Coleman made frequent references to the fact Ferraro was playing his first major league game, but never once mentioned the fact he came from Kingston, N. Y. Red Barber, the Old Redhead, made amends on radio side.

First Since 1926:

Despite the ancient tradition of great baseball in the Kingston area, it has been a long time since our town produced a major leaguer. The last man in a big league boxscore was Bernard A. (Bud) Culleton, a pitcher with the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1926.

Back in the 1880s, ere Kingston had two representatives in the big show—pitcher-outfielder Myron Allen and Dick Johnston, an outfielder with Boston, New York and Cincinnati.

In between, it's been a long time between drinks.

US Hopes Fade In Singles Play

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — George MacCall, the U.S. Davis Cup captain, refuses to be downhearted over the Americans' disappointing showing in the National Tennis Championships, drawing to a climax this weekend.

"Naturally, I wish we had done better, but it's not possible for a player to be at his peak the year around," the Los Angeles insurance executive said today. "We were at our best last winter in Australia — we hope we can reach that peak again."

The United States had only one quarter-final survivor in the men's singles division and that was its 13th-ranked player, Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, who has been tabbed a doubles specialist.

The two top men, Dennis Ralston and Arthur Ashe, lost in straight sets to Australians — Ralston to Fred Stolle and Ashe to John Newcombe.

The upper half of the draw was completed Thursday when defending champion Manuel Santana of Spain won a three-hour thriller from young Bill Bowrey of Australia 6-3, 6-2, 8-6, 5-7, 6-4 and Newcombe beat Englishman Mark Cox, 3-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1.

The United States still had hopes in the women's singles.

Nancy Richey of Dallas gained the semifinals Thursday by beating Virginia Wade of England 6-3, 6-1. She qualified to meet Kerry Melville of Australia in Saturday's semifinals. Miss Melville, who upset top-seeded Mrs. Billie Jean King in the second round, easily won over Madonna Schacht, another Australian, in the quarter-finals 6-1, 6-2.

World's worst recorded train wreck killed 543 persons at Modane, France, in 1917.

Hunter Safety Course

A Hunter Safety Program will be conducted at the National Guard Armory, North Manor Avenue, Kingston, Saturday, 8 a. m. The program will be conducted by SFC William Ferguson of the Army National Guard and Robert Houghtaling, Armorer for the State Armory. Anyone who has not previously held a hunting license and desires to obtain one must obtain a certificate indicating completion of the hunter safety program. There is no charge for this course.

Tie in Traps

Roy Longendyke and Bob Schmiedeke tied with 840 averages in the Lake Katrine trapshoots. Each had a high round of 23 and a pair of 20's. Seventeen shooters completed.

Harris, Croppuso In Flight Finals

Mrs. William D. (Chris) Harris, the reigning Ulster County woman's champion, and Mrs. Michael Croppuso have advanced to the finals in the Championship Flight at The Twaalfskill Club.

Mrs. Croppuso, who has played surprisingly well throughout the tournament, eliminated Mrs. Harry Thayer, 6 and 5, in the semi-finals. Earlier she had topped high ranking Mrs. George Rusk, 3 and 2, and is considered a formidable opponent for Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. Harris won over Mrs. John Carnright in the quarter finals and then beat back the challenge of Mrs. V. J. Andretta, 5 and 4.

In other quarter final matches, Mrs. Andretta defeated Mrs. Edward Minasian, 6 and 5; and Mrs. Thayer nipped Mrs. Bernard Feeney, 1 up.

Class A Flight

Finalists in the Class A flight are Mrs. Burton Davis and Mrs. William Kuehn. Mrs. Davis won over Mrs. George Schneider 5 and 3; and Mrs. Kuehn edged Mrs. Paul Coon, 1 up, in 19 holes.

Quarter final results were: Mrs. Davis over Mrs. A. B. Shufeldt, 2 and 1; Mrs. Schneider over Mrs. Hubert Richter, 8 and 7; Mrs. Coon over Mrs. Bernard Feeney Jr., 1 up; Mrs. Kuehn over Mrs. Edwin O'Reilly.

Bridge Leaders Score High Slam

Henry Berlieth of Woodstock and Ralph Wesselsmann of Shokan posted an excellent 66½ per cent game on the East-West side of the Glenelg Bridge Club's fractional point game.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peck of Woodland led the North-South side with 57 per cent.

The runnersup: North-South: Dr. John Roberts, Kingston, and Arling Kalerberg, West Hurley, 55 per cent; Mrs. L. H. Wheatcroft, Kingston-Walter Daumann, Pine Hill, 54½ per cent; Dr. Murray Fletcher, I. H. Wheatcroft, Kingston, 53 per cent.

East-West: Mr. and Mrs. A. Crisafulli, Boiceville, 62½ per cent; Mr. and Mrs. James Carvin, Kingston, 56 per cent; Mrs. John Olivet - Miss Dorothy Maroon, Kingston, 53 per cent.

A fractional point game is scheduled tonight at 7:30 at the Elks lodge on Fair Street.

Gallo Comeback Is Sizzler

Chris Gallo's "comeback" is the big news of the infant 1966-67 bowling season. Gallo followed a 667 opener in the invitational Classic with 637 Thursday night, boosting his six-game average to 217-plus. In addition, he has rolled 60 consecutive closed frames.

Jerry Woodvine bombed 653, with a hat trick 211, 215, 227, to lead the powerful International League.

Top distaff bowler was Mary Vanacore with a neat 569 on 192, 183, 194, in the Ferraro Women's Invitational.

Butch Maryon led Kingston Hospital bowlers with a 592 set. Other league leaders:

Anita Kelder, Chalet Pioneer Women, 519.
Tiny Komosa, Hercules, 560.
Joan Smith, Friendship, 531.
Jim Noble, Catholic AA, 597.

Football Merger Far From Fact

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, still is voicing cautious optimism, but there's some danger the merger of the NFL and American Football League won't go through.

"We are committed to the total plan," Rozelle said in his New York offices after appearing before a congressional subcommittee meeting in Washington Thursday.

"If any aspect of that total plan, the common draft, the post-season playoff, eventual interlocking play, proposed expansion, any aspect — if any part of it is in danger then the total plan is in danger."

The proposed merger of the two professional football leagues received a mild setback when the House Antitrust Subcommittee rejected Rozelle's plea for legislation to exempt the merger from antitrust laws.

Get Green Light

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary subcommittee and its antitrust subcommittee, advised Rozelle to go ahead with plans to combine the two leagues into a single circuit. He warned, however, that no legislation exempting the merged league from antitrust laws will be enacted this year.

"I told him I can't see any reason for them not to go ahead with their plans," Celler said. "There hasn't been any suit filed or any question raised."

He said that neither the Justice Department nor Congress has any plans of questioning the proposed merger.

The two leagues announced plans for a merger earlier this year. The plans include a post-season playoff between the two champions in January of next year, preseason exhibitions between the two leagues in 1967, a common draft and a complete consolidation — under Rozelle — in 1970.

Pietrosante Inks Cleveland Pact

CLEVELAND (AP) — Nick Pietrosante says he's glad to be in Cleveland, and the Browns are more than happy to have the veteran fullback to bolster their backfield now that Jim Brown is gone. Will open their season Sunday in Washington. It will be the first time since 1957 that Brown hasn't been around. Pietrosante, who was cut by Detroit earlier this week, set a club rushing record with 3,933 yards in seven seasons with the Lions.

"I know I have several years of good football left," he said after signing with the Browns Thursday night. He will be 29 Saturday.

"I talked with several other teams," said Pietrosante, but after spending Thursday afternoon with Browns owner Art Modell and Coach Blanton Collier he said he was "convinced I made the right move."

7---San Francisco 49ers

PASSING—Will John Brodie's spirited holdout become a morale factor after he joins fold? It's a possibility they can't overlook, though Brodie had terrific '65 campaign at NFL's leading passer. There's still a big gap between threat he provides and George Mira's scrambling. RATING—B PLUS.

RECEIVING—No better pass grabber in football than David Parks, and none better at running with ball after it's caught. No apologies need for flanker Bernie Casey, either, though he doesn't run as well in traffic. Monte Stickles has become a steady blocking tight end. RATING—A.

RUNNING—The Big Bull backfield of Ken Willard and John Crow is ideal. Besides ball carrying strength, they block ideally and are excellent receivers. In addition, they're capably backed up by Gary Lewis, Dave Kopay, who're only a shade behind in quality. RATING—B PLUS.

LINE—Starting unit has settled into groove for third straight year: Bruce Bosley at center, John Thomas and Howard Mudd at guards, Len Rohde and Walter Rock at tackles. Bosley, Thomas carry a lot of years — but 49ers have a lot of good kids begging for shot. Jim Wilson, Jim Norton are second year men. Dave McCormick was prize draftee. RATING—B.

KICKING—Tommy Davis is one of the few double duty men in the league and there's still no threat in sight to supplant him in either the department. His figures are consistently among NFL leaders. RATING—A.

DEFENSE
LINE—Everything's geared to No. 1 draft choice Stan Hindman taking over a regular end job. Tackle Charlie Krueger's the solid man up front, one of under-rated performers in game. Roland Lakes fits better at tackle. Clark Miller rounds out front four. Karl Rubke filled in last year for Dan Colchico, who's probably through. RATING—B.

LINEBACKING—No changes contemplated in holdover alignment of Matt Hazeltine and Dave Wilcox on corners, Mike Dowdle in middle. Wilcox has become the flashy performer of that group. Ed Beard, Jack Chapple loom as the subs again. Whole unit doesn't scare anybody. RATING—B.

SECONDARY—Couple of genuine class performers in halfback, Jim Johnson and Kermit Alexander, but it drops off sharply after them. Elbert Kimbrough still claims a corner job, but sophs George Donnelly and Wayne Swinford must show more than they did last year to stay ahead of rookie Dan Bland. RATING—C PLUS.

SUMMARY—It's irony that Jack Christiansen, a defensive star himself as a player, comes up with a team that kills you with offense but gives up as much as it scores. That imbalance hurt last year, and it'll hurt again. Unless Crow has another big year, the attack will slow up some, too. PREDICTION—SIXTH.

Nevele Red Wins In Featured 7th

MONTICELLO — Nevele Red, a ten-year-old gelded son of J. T. Barnes-Speedways Red Tennis, won last night's featured seventh race at Monticello Raceway in 2:08.4. George Sziklai was in the sulks to rein the big bay to a length and a half triumph over Henri Fillion's Atlantic Stone and Real Cormier's Skeeter Dillon.

Owned by the Blackfoot Stables of White Plains, and trained by Leon Wunderlich, Nevele Red was raced off the early pace set by Atlantic Stone and Spillbank. Sziklai moved him into contention at the three quarters and went on to record the pacer's second score of the season before returning $17.40, 6.80 and 4.20 across the board.

The $30 and daily double paid $39.50. Winning horses were Navy Hanover in the first and Volo Up in the second. The evening's twin double returned $1,545.20. Winning combination was 2-4-3-7 and there were 13 live tickets.

The perfecta paid $9.89. Winning combination was 1-7. A crowd of 3,109 was on hand to wager $206,233.

Noble Victory Wins $100G Race

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Noble Victory, winner of six straight races in record shattering times, is going to get a rest. And if ever a horse deserved one, the son of Victory Song-Emily's Pride does. "He is going home for a little rest," said trainer-driver Stanley Dancer Thursday night after Noble Victory had won the $100,000 Hilltop Trot at Yonkers Raceway with a stakes equalling clocking of 2:34 1-5 for 1¼ miles.

"His next start will be Oct. 8 in the $50,000 Gotham at Yonkers," Dancer added as he talked of the swift moving 4-year-old who cost $33,000 as a yearling, has won $516,391 and was syndicated for $1 million last spring. Victory in the Hilltop was worth $55,000, but his backers with win betting only, received a mere $2.40 for each $2.00 invested.

Falls View Captures Finger Lakes Race

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP) — Falls View, a 7-year-old gelding, scored a length and a half victory Thursday over Ambiguity in the $1,100 seventh race feature at Finger Lakes Race Track.

Surf Skooter ran third. Falls View was ridden by Jose Olivares, who notched his third victory of the day. His other victories were scored atop Diabie Lindo in the first and Mid Report in the fifth.

Falls View ran the 5½ furlongs in 1:07 1-5 and paid $17.20, $5.60 and $4. The daily double combination of 5 and 9 paid $26.40.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME Registered U. S. Patent Office by JIMMY HATLO

'Sticky Fingers' Needs Help

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a rather sticky problem. Sticky fingers. I "collect" books. I am a college graduate and my hobby is reading, so I spend a lot of time browsing in book stores.

I usually buy a book or two, then walk out with another (unpaid for) under my arm. I can well afford to buy the books I pick up, so I can't lay the blame on need. Nor can I say I take them for "kicks," because I take the type of books I enjoy, Zen, psychology and the classics.

Suggesting professional help would be useless for I am only slightly embarrassed by this tendency, but I would not like to get caught. What to do?

"STICKY FINGERS" IN S. F.
DEAR STICKY: Since you yourself have ruled out kleptomania, you appear to be a confessed petty thief. And since you enjoy reading, "pick up" (and PAY FOR!) a psychology book and learn something of "unconscious motivations and masochism."

Some people steal because they have an unconscious desire to be caught and punished. And eventually they are.

DEAR ABBY: According to a well-known marriage counselor, ninety per cent of all divorces start in the bedroom. Would you say this was true?

CURIOUS
DEAR CURIOUS: Which bedroom?

DEAR ABBY: I usually side with you, but when you say it's all right for a pregnant woman and to stand in the front row of a choir, that's where I draw the line.

After all, let's have a little respect for a crowd of mixed sexes. It is embarrassing to see a pregnant woman, flaunting her condition. Sure, I have two kids, but I didn't go out and throw myself at people and force them to look at me. Whoever says a pregnant woman is "beautiful" is a liar, and you know it. Let's be realistic about this and admit the truth.

A MOTHER.
DEAR MOTHER: All right, let's be realistic. Everyone on this earth got here via the same route—a pregnant woman. So why the embarrassment? "Beauty," they say, "lies in the eye of the beholder." And so many a pregnant woman is indeed beautiful.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please say something to people who bring their wedding gifts to the church when they come for the wedding. Invitations are sent out three weeks before the wedding, which is plenty of time to buy a gift and have it delivered to the bride's home.

My daughter was recently married in a beautiful big church wedding, and she sent 400 invitations. About 200 guests brought their gifts to the church. Now Abby, there is no time between the ceremony, dinner and reception for a bride to open 200 gifts.

And afterwards she leaves immediately for her honeymoon. So that leaves all those gifts unopened and unacknowledged. And the people who bring their gifts to the church are the first to complain because they weren't thanked soon enough.

BRIDE'S MOTHER
Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

Claims Kennedy Must Bear Brunt Of Prestige Loss

AN AP NEWS ANALYSIS
By CHARLES DUMAS

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Although he may protest, U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy apparently will have to bear a measure of the prestige-loss inflicted on Democratic party leaders Thursday by Howard Samuels.

Kennedy claimed he had no part in the hierarchy's decision to award the nomination for lieutenant governor to Orin S. Lehman, a grandnephew of the late Herbert H. Lehman, the former governor.

No Loss of Face
Consequently, from Kennedy's viewpoint, no loss of face should have been assessed to him when the convention spurned Lehman in favor of Samuels.

But a sudden determination arose that it would not be handled that way this time.

Samuels had impressed numerous democrats — at all levels — with his cogency and vigor in an unsuccessful drive for the gubernatorial nomination. But they had commitments to O'Connor and had to crush Samuels' bid for the top spot Wednesday night.

Many did so with obvious misgivings and with sympathy for Samuels. Wherever delegates gathered Thursday morning, there was talk that he should be soled with the nomination for lieutenant governor.

At the same time, it was common gossip that Kennedy was not attuned to the Samuels personality or to the millionaire businessman's frequently unconventional approach to politics.

Word Was Out
The word was out that "Bob" had turned thumbs down on Samuels as a nominee for lieutenant governor.

Perhaps it was because of this talk that O'Connor and Burns and frustrated the leaders' plans.

This was not the way rank-and-file delegates saw it, however, as they arose belligerently in Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium to insist on Samuels' designation for the No. 2 spot on the state ticket.

They were aware that Kennedy had spent the better part of the previous 24 hours in deep conference with gubernatorial nominee Frank D. O'Connor and State Chairman John Burns.

The subject of these talks was obvious — the selection of running mates for O'Connor. After all, party leaders always settled these matters among themselves and customarily presented them to state conventions for ratification.

Determination Arose
But a sudden determination arose that it would not be handled that way this time.

Samuels had impressed numerous democrats — at all levels — with his cogency and vigor in an unsuccessful drive for the gubernatorial nomination. But they had commitments to O'Connor and had to crush Samuels' bid for the top spot Wednesday night.

Word Was Out
The word was out that "Bob" had turned thumbs down on Samuels as a nominee for lieutenant governor.

Perhaps it was because of this talk that O'Connor and Burns escaped with little resentment toward them, despite their involvement. It was assumed that Lehman was Kennedy's choice and, rightly or wrongly, many of the delegates thought they were defying Kennedy in their decision to go to bat for Samuels.

Also there was considerable grousing about the time-proven system of handing a ready-made ticket to the convention — for meek acceptance. Many grumbled that it might be time for a change.

Tammany Hall Leader J. Raymond Jones voiced the prevalent sentiment when he told reporters, "I'm tired of being told what to do."

Kennedy had departed for New York City after participating in the talks that produced agreement on Lehman. When word of the Buffalo uprising reached him, he instructed an aide to inform newsmen that Lehman had not been his man.

But that's not what the delegates thought when they roared through their nomination of Samuels.

Many of them were Kennedy admirers and freely acknowledged his ascendant influence in party affairs.

Mormons Leader Is 93
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—David O. McKay, leader of the world's 2.5-million Mormons, is 93 today.

McKay, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) since 1951, planned a quiet observance with his wife, Emma Ray, and family members at a dinner tonight in their hotel apartment.

O'Connor Begins Mapping Drive

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Frank D. O'Connor, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, began mapping out his campaign today with aides of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

O'Connor, physically exhausted after nearly 48 hours without sleep, canceled several scheduled appearances in the Buffalo area today to rest in his hotel suite and meet with some of his new campaign workers.

Staff Enlarged
O'Connor's staff was enlarged shortly after the convention that nominated him had closed Thursday night. Jay Schwamm, a 36-year-old New York City investment banker, and political ally of Humphrey, was named to take over advance planning of the campaign.

Marvin Rosenberg, a wealthy New York manufacturer, also joined O'Connor's staff. His chief function will involve fundraising, the candidate said.

Rosenberg is a close personal friend of the vice president and represents him in political matters in New York.

William F. Haddad, former New York newspaperman and a reform Democrat, will work for O'Connor in a research capacity, mapping out local issues for the candidate as he travels around the state.

Haddad works only with candidates that have Kennedy's support and was recently involved in Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanaugh's unsuccessful bid for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

O'Connor said Thursday night he would look over a number of suggestions today made by his new campaign workers.

In N-F Tonight
The 56-year-old New York City Council president delivers his first major campaign address tonight in Niagara Falls before the Niagara County Democratic dinner. He will spend the night in Niagara Falls with his wife Mary and fly to Rochester Saturday morning.

The O'Connors will attend a reception for them in the Canandaigua home of Howard J. Samuels, the millionaire businessman running for lieutenant governor on the O'Connor ticket.

Later, O'Connor will deliver another major address, before the annual meeting of the New York State Press Association at Lake George.

After the luncheon speech, the candidate will return to his home in New York City, where Queens Democrats plan a rally for him at LaGuardia Airport.

O'Connor was district attorney of Queens County for 10 years and before that, served five years as a state senator.

O'Connor ignored the telecast Thursday night of the Republican nomination of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in Rochester. Instead, he met with Samuels and Buffalo Mayor Frank A. Sedita, the Democratic nominee for state attorney general.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, who is seeking his fourth term, had gone to bed. He was to meet with O'Connor today.

Stevens' Visit Brings National Attention Here

The ribbon-cutting ceremony at which millionaire Roger Stevens will preside here will introduce the Mid-Hudson Regional Art Program Traveling Student Show at Kleiner Memorial Gallery, Woodstock Guild of Craftsman, at 5:15 p. m. this Saturday.

Dr. Raymond G. Kenyon, regional director of the Center, said Stevens' visit will focus national attention on the Center's year-round art program funded under the Elementary-Secondary Education Act of 1965 and will further focus on Woodstock as a national art center of historical significance in the United States.

The Woodstock Festival publication for 1966 notes that "until 1902 Woodstock was a farming community located in a quiet picturesque valley in the midst of the Catskill Mountain range. At this point in its unique history, Ralph Radcliffe Whitehead, an Englishman, who had been a student of Ruskin and a friend of William Morris wanted to establish a community of working artists and craftsmen similar to those Morris had envisioned. The communities were to re-establish the value of handicrafts in a machine age.

Called Perfect Setting
"In Woodstock, after a search which had taken him as far as California, Ralph Whitehead found the perfect site: a setting of great aesthetic beauty, which offered needed isolation for the artist-craftsman and yet the proximity to the great evolving art center of New York City. On the side of Overlook Mountain, he built the colony of Byrdcliffe, which originally comprised some 20 houses, the art workshops, dormitory and a reference library. The ideas

Water Ban Goes Into Effect Here

Despite the fact that Woodstock spent approximately $60,000 during the water emergency years of 1963 and 1964—a sum that included the cost of drilling five new wells—measures taken at that time have failed to solve the problem of one of the longest droughts in history.

The Town Board officially ordered all consumers of water provided by the Woodstock Water District to take drastic measures to conserve water this week and placed a stringent ban on use of water in the district.

More than 500 families are serviced by town wells and will be effected by the ban, as will many local businesses.

The board, under Section 32 of the Ordinances, Rules and Regulations of the Woodstock Water District, notified all customers of Water District water by mail this week that they are limited to the use of water for drinking, washing, cooking and sanitary purposes only.

The board also warned that failure to comply with the ban would be grounds for shutting off all water furnished to any consumer without further notice.

Woodstock's ban comes late in another waterless and almost rainless season. Other communities in the immediate area have had water bans for most of the summer. The local Town Board, however, was forced to take action when the reserve supply of water here fell lower and lower.

Gallon by gallon, the water dropped and, although total, direct emergency conditions do not presently exist, the future does not exactly look rosy.

Supervisor William R. West Jr. noted recently that the ban might have been avoided if residents had recognized the need to conserve water earlier and had refrained from using the precious liquid to keep lawns green during the height of the summer's heat.

Gerardia Named Delegate to East

WOODSTOCK — Helen Gerardia, Woodstock painter and printmaker, who also serves as president of the American Society of Contemporary Artists, will leave for the Orient at September's end to attend the Fifth International Congress of Art of the International Association of Artists.

She will act as observer for Artists Equity of New York and the Society of American Graphic Artists. Miss Gerardia also attended the Fourth International Congress in New York City to which 54 nations sent representatives. She has been on the United States Committee for the past several years as the delegate of SAGA.

The general theme of the Congress will be "The Importance to the Contemporary Artist of Improving the General Understanding of Art in the Various Cultural Regions of the World, both Oriental and Occidental."

Among the many functions Miss Gerardia will be attending are governmental receptions in Tokyo and Kyoto, visits to studios of Oriental artists and to Zen Buddhist temples.

During the current month, Miss Gerardia is having a one-man show of prints at Hastings College in Nebraska and another at Pennsylvania State College in Hazleton. Her work is also currently included in group shows at the University of Maine, Pensacola Art Center, Looming College, University of Oklahoma and St. Xavier University in Nova Scotia.

Awarded Paintings At Benedictine Sale

Attorney Lloyd R. LeFever was awarded the first painting by Brock and Mrs. John Grimes of Staten Island in the second painting at the Benedictine hospital building fund rummage sale held in Woodstock Saturday.

Peggy L. Egan and Adele Longendyke, co-chairmen, announce the sale a success and they thank all members of the committee and the people and the merchants in the area and the artists for their contributions.

Charge Upstate Youth In Death of Parents

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A 17-year-old boy has been arraigned on a charge of first-degree murder in the death of his parents, whose bodies were found Monday night at their home in suburban Minoa.

James M. DiCostanzo was arraigned Thursday before Justice Harrison Williams of the Town of Manlius. The youth was remanded to the Public Safety Building here, pending an examination.

The charge stems from the death of the boy's father, George M. DiCostanzo, 54, and his mother, Helen, 48. The couple had been shot several times with a .22 caliber weapon.

Police say that no motive has been established for the slayings.

The boy was arrested Sunday on a charge of using an altered driver's license and was sentenced to a 100-day term in the Jefferson County Jail. Later, he was questioned about the slayings and was returned here for arraignment.

Maine Awaits Vols

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — The first six VISTA volunteers assigned to help Maine Indians arrive here next Monday. Gov. John H. Reed reported, VISTA is the domestic equivalent of the Peace Corps.

Overlook Church Slates Rally Day

Christian Education will be the theme of worship this week at Overlook Methodist Church. The pastor, the Rev. James W. Cook, will preach on the topic "The Values of Sunday School."

This Sunday has been set aside as Rally Day in the church school and all classes of the church school will be open for pupils, according to William Fisher, chairman of the Education Commission of the church.

Harley Shultis, church school superintendent, wishes to inform children and parents that it will be necessary, because of the lack of adequate space, to continue the "split session" of church school. All those from the second grade through adult class will begin their sessions promptly at 9:45 a. m.; the beginner and kindergarten-first grade classes will begin at 11 a. m.

Worship hour this Sunday will begin at 11 a. m. and a nursery is available for infants and toddlers.

The Education Commission will hold a "teacher's workshop" Monday evening, Sept. 12, in the church hall. All teachers and substitutes are urged to attend.

Sale Successful

Lloyd LeFever, Kingston attorney, was the happy recipient of an original painting by Shady artist Brock Brokenshaw, at last weekend's bazaar and sale in Woodstock to benefit Benedictine Hospital.

Another painting by Birgit Eber was awarded to Mrs. John Grimes, wife of a Staten Island attorney. The paintings were presented by Sister Gabrielle of the hospital staff.

Co-chairmen Peggy Egan and Adele Longendyke, who planned the bazaar event, said this week that the affair had been a tremendous success and extended their thanks to all those who participated.

Substance Is Topic At Christ Scientist

Solomon's prayer for "an understanding heart" rather than riches will introduce the Bible lesson on "Substance" to be read at Christian Science churches this Sunday.

Correlative selections from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy will include the statement that "Truth, Life, and Love are substance, as the Scriptures use this word in Hebrew: The substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

Sunday services in Woodstock are held at 11 a. m.

Tuesday Club Lunch

Tuesday Club of Woodstock will open its season's program, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Eleanor Lynch, with a luncheon for members only on Tuesday, Sept. 13, at 12 noon, at Leher's Restaurant, Kingston.

Other upcoming activities for the year will include a card party, country fair, Christmas party and colored slides program to be presented by Mr. and Mrs. Edward West, of Allen.

TELEGRAM

FROM NEWSPAPER: Few words can be traced to an exact birth. But telegram is one that can. The word was first suggested in the old Albany Journal on April 6, 1825. It replaced the cumbersome name "Telegraphic dispatch" which plagued newspaper editors looking for something short to fit their headlines. The name immediately caught on everywhere.

Symposium Will Study Problems Of Moon Landing

By RALPH DIGHTON

AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — New problems in finding safe spots to land on the moon — and discovery of mysterious "now you see them, now you don't" particles on the U.S. lunar scout, Surveyor 1 — were on the agenda at a symposium here of the American Geophysical Union.

Dr. E. M. Shoemaker of the U.S. Geological Survey, Flagstaff, Ariz., reported at the University of California at Los Angeles that studies of pictures returned by Surveyor 1 show it landed only 300 yards from a crater surrounded by a dense field of boulders up to four feet in diameter.

In an interview, he said: "Any one of those large blocks could have upset Surveyor 1 and, since we can presume there are many such fields of boulders on the heavily cratered moon, this could be a problem of real concern to future Surveyors and to astronaut landing craft in the Apollo program."

"Surveyor 1 was lucky," Dr. Shoemaker said, "on the moon last June 1 and televised hundreds of closeups of itself and the surrounding terrain out to the horizon 1 1/2 miles away."

Space Scientist John W. Lucas of Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which guided and commanded Surveyor 1, said the craft's camera photographed bright specks on top of a box housing electronic gear.

The specks, about the size of grains of sand, appeared, vanished and were replaced by new specks in photographs taken on successive days, Lucas said.

"We don't know what the specks are or why they seemed to come and go," Lucas added. "They might have been micrometeorites or lunar surface particles kicked up by micrometeorites."

"Whatever they are, they're a surprise."

Reaction Varies

his part to cut federal spending and appealed to labor to forego demands for inflationary wage increases.

Some praise for the psychological effect of the proposal came from Butler and David S. Jackson, chairman of the board of governors of the American Stock Exchange.

Its impact, Butler said, "will be on the useful side," while Jackson noted that the program constitutes a definite course of action, an attitude, that he believed would meet with Wall Street's approval.

Wise Move: Meany

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said the plan deals with "the two principal factors most to blame for today's profit inflation" — the tax credit and the accelerated depreciation formula.

"The President," Meany said, "has wisely moved to eliminate the superheat from the only spot in the economy which is now overheated."

James Tobin, a Yale University economist, said "I am glad to see the proposal. It is the correct first step in tightening fiscal policy."

The Dutch, in 1600, were first to make gin by adding juniper berries to "schnapps."

Fine Fall Weather Prospect

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecast for Upstate New York, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from Saturday through Wednesday:

There will be some very fine early fall weather during the next four or five days. Temperatures will slowly rise and average a degree or two above normal.

There will be little or no rainfall, but there is some probability of scattered showers early next week.

Daytime highs will range in the mid 70s to low 80s and nighttime lows will be in the upper 40s and 50s.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

84 PC Passed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey says

partial results indicate that 84 per cent of the men taking the Selective Service college qualification test last May passed the examination.

Hershey, director of the Selective Service System, made the announcement Thursday. He said it was based on an analysis of a 10 per cent sample of the more than 350,000 men taking the test.

Science Research Associates of Chicago, under contract to the Selective Service System to administer the tests, made the analysis. It will administer two more test sessions Nov. 18 and 19.

The tests are aimed at helping local draft boards determine whether registrants should be granted student deferments.

Radium Capsule Lost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public Health Service authorities are seeking a capsule containing radioactive radium that was lost during shipment somewhere in the United States last month.

Officials said the capsule — one inch long and an eighth of an inch in diameter — was shipped Aug. 15 from Seattle, Wash., to Woodside, Long Island, N.Y.

It was missing, however, when its lead cover and the outside box arrived 16 days later. The health service said the lid was loose.

The $50 capsule contains 50 milligrams of radium. But Dr. Donald R. Chadwick, chief of the division of radiological health, said it is doubtful whether it would cause any discernible radiation effects other than a reddening of the skin unless kept in close contact with the body.

Capital Footnotes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials may try again tonight to launch a rocket that will eject massive red, green and blue clouds in an experiment in measuring high-altitude winds and electric fields.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee has sent to the Judiciary Committee a bill to make it a federal crime to travel to any country or area where travel has been prohibited by the President.

The Department of Commerce says retail sales during the week ended Sept. 3 reached $6.028 billion — 3 per cent above the $5.88 billion of the previous week and 5 per cent more than sales of the same week in 1965.

Report Wrong Car

A report of a traffic accident on Route 32 at Tillson published yesterday stated that a car operated by Harry Snow, 46, of New Paltz, struck a building of George M. McEvoy after it was involved in a collision, State police said.

The police said the other car, driven by John H. Rowe, 18, of Tillson, hit the building causing damage. Snow was cited by Trooper Craig Bremer of the Kingston detail for driving too close after his car reportedly hit the rear of the Rowe vehicle.

Man Dies in Fire

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (AP) — A 59-year-old man perished early today in a fire that damaged a bedroom in his home.

Police withheld his name, pending notification of relatives. They said the fire apparently was caused by careless smoking.

There was no estimate of the loss. The man lived at 15 Adams St.

Port Ewen Reformed Church Notes

Reformed Church, the Rev. Ronald D. Lokhorst, pastor — Sunday school classes will begin

Sept. 11 at 9:30 a. m. for kindergarten children through high school. Classes for children age 2 through 4 will be held at 11 a. m. A nursery service will be available in the church basement for children up to 2 years of age, during the worship service. Sermon topic will be Who's Killing The Church? A junior church program will be conducted in the church rooms during the second half of the worship service. Children from kindergarten age through the fifth grade may attend the worship service with their parents and be dismissed for junior church. This program is entirely separate from the Sunday school classes. Sunday evening, the RCYF will meet at 6:30 p. m. All young people from the ninth grade and up may attend. Monday, the consistory will meet in the Fellowship Room at 8 p. m. Tuesday, the Women's Guild will meet at 8 p. m. in the Fellowship Room. Mrs. Anne Toogood will be in charge of the program. Thursday, senior choir will rehearse at 7:30 p. m.

The purpose of the Ulster County Committee is to stress the importance of the issue for the defeat of the proposed lottery amendment, to the people of the county. In addition, the committee will be contacting all the major organizations in the county, and will be instrumental in making educational material about the fallacies of the lottery available to the people.

The committee welcomes the support of interested individuals and organizations who will take a stand against the lottery amendment. It is suggested that these persons write the committee at UPO Box 703, Kingston, if further information on the lottery is desired.

The next meeting will be Sept. 22 at 8 p. m. in St. James Methodist Church at which time the guest speaker will be the Rev. S. Bowen Hawkins, executive director of The New York Temperance Civic League Inc. and an authority on the lottery. The meeting, sponsored by the Kingston Area Council of Churches, is open to all interested persons.

Coup Try Crushed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Premier Youssef Zayzen of Syria announced today that an attempt to overthrow his leftist regime was crushed Thursday night. But independent reports reaching Beirut indicated the threat of civil war still hangs over Syria.

Syria's borders with the outside world were closed, an indefinite curfew was being maintained, and troops guarded the Ministry of Defense and radio station and patrolled the streets of the Syrian army outside Damascus but these could not be confirmed.

Shaggy Hairdos Taboo

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — About a dozen Middletown High School pupils have been sent home this week by officials enforcing rules barring "eccentric" haircuts and clothing.

Asked about some of the boys' shaggy hairdos, Principal H. H. Lawrence said, "We are not running a kennel for poodles."

Two Boys Killed

NORTH TONAWANDA, N.Y. (AP) — Two 18-year-old boys were killed today when an automobile in which they were riding struck a tree on a city street.

They were Joseph Conway and Allen Behm, both of nearby Kenmore.

Conway lived at 51 Lincoln Blvd. and Behm at 121 McKinley Ave.

Resnick Says He, Fish Agree on Debate Rules

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick today said that he and Hamilton Fish Jr., had agreed to the ground rules that will be used in the series of debates the two candidates planned yesterday. Jean Hervey, Conservative party candidate, who will share the platform, is expected to comply with the rules.

A debate on Agriculture is scheduled for tonight at 8 o'clock at the Oak Grove Grange, South Road, Poughkeepsie. Other future debates include Viet Nam and foreign policy, Sept. 26, Columbia County and the State of the Economy, Oct. 3, Temple Emanuel, Kingston. Two other debates are currently being negotiated by both camps.

The rules to be followed are that the first candidate to speak will give a 10-minute opening address. He then will be questioned by the other two candidates for a total of five minutes. The second speaker will then give his opening 10 minute speech. This will be followed by the same routine and finally the last speaker will give his opening address. He also will be cross-examined by the other two candidates. A five minute recess will follow.

The rebuttal arguments will be conducted in reverse order. The last speaker to present the opening address will make his rebuttal first. The second speaker will make his rebuttal second and the first speaker will make his rebuttal last.

Following the rebuttals there will be a question and answer session from the audience. An impartial moderator will be selected to govern the debates.

Drivers Cited, Boy Hurt Here

Two drivers were cited for violations after a mishap at O'Neil Street and Broadway today and a boy was injured Thursday in a car-bicycle collision on Elmendorf Street.

Stephen Rowles, 7, of 55 Elmendorf Street, was treated at Kingston Hospital for a head injury after the Elmendorf Street mishap near the railroad overpass at 3:45 p. m. Thursday.

Police said the bicycle he rode went off a curb and hit a rear door of a car driven by Mildred Organtini, 53, of 18 Elmendorf Street. Officer Frank Kennelly investigated.

In the other accident, one car was driven by Ronald Bergeron, 25, of 9 O'Neil Street, and the other by Mary Dreger, 49, of 232 Foxhall Avenue. The latter was charged with lacking a license and registration and the other with starting unsafely from a curb. Officers Ira Hadsel and Joseph Feraca investigated the mishap reported at 7:15 a. m.

Bergeron was fined $10 in city court today and hearing of the other driver was put over to Sept. 16.
